To reach $5.2 million by 1980

Dist. 63 faces deficit despite cuts

East Maine Dist. 63 faces a $5.2 million deficit by 1980 even with annual teacher layoffs and teacher salary increases held to 5 per cent, according to administration projections.

The district expected to have a surplus of funds through the 1976-77 school year. However, updated figures, presented to the board of education Tuesday, show the district just breaking even next year and hitting nearly a $1 million deficit by June 1978.

James Bowen, Dist. 63 business manager, said the projections "reflect what are thought to be sound assumptions and assumptions which were intended to be conservative for projecting revenue."

THE PROJECTIONS show a 13.7 per cent decline in enrollment by the 1979-80 school year, from an estimated 5,668 students this year to 4,889. The figures include special education students in the district.

Bowen also included staff reduction in the projections including:

- The elimination of six classroom positions and the addition of three special education teachers for the 1977-78 school year.
- The elimination of five classroom positions for the 1978-79 school year.
- The elimination of five classroom positions and the addition of two special education teachers in the 1979-80 school year.

Dist. 63 cut 22 classroom positions this spring because of declining enrollment and to ward off a financial deficit.

THE PROJECTIONS show a $938,702 deficit by June 1978, a $2.68 million deficit by June 1979 and a $5.2 million deficit by June 1980.

Bowen said the $950,550 surplus the district has been anticipating this year and $309,692 next year is less than originally expected. He said the state aid payment for June will be only 73 per cent of what the district expected "because there are not enough dollars in the state" to give the district the full amount. The district will receive $128,969 less than the $2,697,876 it requested in state aid this year, Bowen said.

Bowen told the board, "The best information we have now is that no (additional) appropriations will be passed (by the General Assembly this spring). Also, we have made the assumption, based on the best information we have obtained as of this date, that the state aid formula will be funded in 1976-77 only at a 90 per cent level."

If the state aid formula was funded at 100 per cent, the district would receive $291,936 in additional revenue, Bowen said.

Bowen said projections of district expenditures includes the 9.77 per cent increase in teachers' salaries negotiated for the 1976-77 school year. Projections for future years included a 5 per cent increase for teachers.

Markworth to assume top park job

David Markworth Wednesday was appointed director of parks and recreation for the Des Plaines Park District.

Markworth, 32, of 700 Beau Dr., Des Plaines, has been superintendent of recreation since May 1969. He has served as acting park director since March when Robert L. Kunkel resigned his post with the district.

Dr. Kermit Smith, president of the Des Plaines Park Board, said 30 candates for the $23,500 a year job were screened, and Markworth was selected from seven finalists.

"AFTER LOOKING at 30 applicants, we picked Dave because we felt he was the best one for the job," Smith said, adding Markworth was chosen on the basis of experience and knowledge of the district's operation.

Markworth said he "welcomes the challenge."

"I am enthusiastic and looking forward to helping provide the best program possible," he said. "Providing good services will be our goal."

He said he would be "open with the public" and will solicit opinions and suggestions about how the district can improve recreational programs.

MARKWORTH, A CHICAGO native, received a bachelor's degree in physical education and business administration from Valparaiso University in 1965. He received a master's degree in recreation and park administration from Indiana University in 1966. He is married and has two children.

As director, Markworth will oversee the operation of the park district which has 165 acres of land, a par three golf course and a lake and serves about 50,000 residents.

Markworth succeeds Kunkel who resigned for "personal reasons" March 4. Kunkel, 33, had been director since 1969.

Troops on way to Beirut

Syrians drive on toward Sidon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian troops and tanks sliced southward through the heart of Lebanon Wednesday, driving on the Moslem-held ancient port city of Sidon in what Christians called a prelude to a march on Beirut.

The Syrians, part of a force of some 4,000 troops which invaded Lebanon Tuesday, met little resistance as they cut a swath through rightist, leftist and Palestinian positions in the lower Chouf region.

But the Syrians halted their advance before reaching Sidon with reporters in the biblical city reporting no troop sightings Wednesday night. Residents strolled in the city square under what appeared to be normal conditions.

Sidon is the ancient Phoenician seaport where the Apostle Paul stopped on his way back to Rome as a prisoner.

In the eastern Bekaa Valley, advance columns of the Syrian invasion force moved within 500 yards of Moslem leftist forces defending their positions at the ski resort of Dahr al-Baider, reports from the region said.

Witnesses returning from the area reported that Moslem leftists have brought reinforcements to Dahr al-Baider and faced off against the Syrian columns about four miles west of Chtaura, 30 miles east of Beirut, on the eastern ranges of Mount Lebanon. However, neither side showed any signs of advancing further for the moment, they said.

Scattered clashes in Beirut and the eastern Bekaa Valley between Christian rightists and Moslem leftists claimed another 58 dead and 110 wounded over the past 24 hours.

So far, the Palestinian guerrillas had yet to make good their threat to Record album promotion—push, push, push

by TOM VON MALDER

Each year more than 2,000 record albums are released to claw their way onto radio playlists and into your home. And despite the record industry's being a multimillion-dollar-a-year business, relatively few records actually "makt it."

Not even the "best" records automatically get on radio or are bought without a hearing. That privilege is reserved for very few sure-fire hitmakers — Elton John, Led Zeppelin or the Rolling Stones.

What makes the difference for most records is promotion, and promotion always starts with the radio stations.

"AIR PLAY (on radio) creates sales, especially with an unknown group," said Lenny Lufman, promotion manager for ABC Records local branch, 360 Scott St., Elk Grove Village.

Lufman was beginning a promotional effort on just such an unknown group, the Faragher Bros. Part of the group, known as Bones, had released two albums several years ago but the group never caught on with the public.

"Initially, all records are promoted," Lufman said, adding the amount of promotion depends on the response by radio stations and even on his own ears.

"Certain albums you know when you listen to them where (which radio stations) you can take them."

NEW ALBUMS ARE distributed to radio stations in two fashions — mail and hand delivery. The sell comes with the hand delivery, although Lufman said he has followed up telephone conversations with consecutive days mailing of the same album. "You've got to keep the name in front of them," he said.

At the radio station, Lufman will usually try to play a new album for the program director, the man who decides what the radio station plays. Even if a program director cannot be persuaded to play an album — he may want to wait until it "breaks" (is played elsewhere first) — Lufman tries to find out which songs the program director likes.

Today

Often a record must be "broken" in "secondary markets" first, Lufman said. These would include small stations, such as Indiana and Milwaukee,

Action on Shea complaint delayed

An Illinois House subcommittee delayed action again Wednesday on State Rep. Eugene Schlickman's complaint against House Majority Leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside.

A subcommittee of the Illinois House Executive Committee debated, but did not decide, on a proposal by State Rep. Arthur Berman, D-Chicago, to hold secret hearings on the complaint. The panel is expected to take up the matter again today.

Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, has asked the House to reprimand Shea because he accepted money for legal work from the Illinois State Medical Society and then introduced a package of legislation to change the state malpractice insurance laws. He also represented the medical society in discussions with the Illinois Dept. of Insurance.

SCHLICKMAN HAS expanded his complaint to include other legal work by Shea for Illinois Dental Service Inc. He represented that group, which holds contracts with the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid, in meetings with state insurance officials.

The House would have to vote by a two-thirds margin to hold the secret hearing. Berman called for the approval of rules to require the appointment of a special six-member investigating committee to hear evidence in secret.

If the committee found the charges were justified, a second, public hearing would be held.

Berman told reporters after the session that he hopes the current resolution will either be withdrawn or found out of order by the House so that a new resolution, which conforms to the rules, can be presented.

Columbo indicted in murder of family

A Cook County Grand Jury Wednesday indicted Patricia Ann Columbo, 19, on charges of murdering three members of her family in Elk Grove Village last month. Miss Columbo was indicted on six counts of murder and one count each of conspiring and soliciting to commit murder. The indictment charged Miss Columbo, a former Elk Grove High School student, with the brutal May 4 slayings of her father, Frank, 42; her mother, Mary, 40; and her brother, Michael, 13. Miss Columbo also was indicted on charges of soliciting and conspiring to murder with Lanyon Mitchell, 24, between Oct. 17, 1975, and May 4, 1976. Mitchell and Frank De Luca, Miss Columbo's boyfriend, have not been charged and were not indicted Wednesday. On May 25 Circuit Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald issued an order prohibiting prosecutors and police from making out-of-court statements that might prejudice Miss Columbo's trial. The gag order, requested by Miss Columbo's defense attorneys, has been cited by police in refusing to comment on certain details of the case.

Jury to begin deliberations

The jury in the trial of former Lake County Sheriff Orville (Pat) Clavey today is expected to begin deliberations. Prosecution and defense attorneys are expected to complete closing arguments today in U. S. District Court in Chicago where Clavey is on trial. He is charged with four counts of perjury, three counts of tax evasion and one count of extortion. U. S. District Atty. George Gilkerson told the jury Wednesday that the prosecution had demonstrated Clavey's abuse of his office because of alleged payoffs he received for extorting and doing favors. He compared "the $100 bills floating around the sheriff's office" to "race track tickets floating to the ground after races." Defense Attorney George Collins said he believed the trial demonstrated how immunity to persons testifying for the prosecution could be used improperly. Collins contended that Clavey's former deputy, Jerome Shuetz, testified for the prosecution because the sheriff's department was being investigated. Collins said that Shuetz was guilty and "pointed the finger" at Clavey to get immunity. Collins said, "If you're in trouble by yourself you don't get immunity — you get jail."

Syrians slice through heart of Lebanon confront the Syrian army, whose three-day-old advance through north, south and eastern Lebanon has been virtually unopposed.

The rightwing Christian Phalangist party, which maintains close contacts with the Syrians, said the troops planned to take Sidon, 30 miles south of Beirut, and "then proceed towards Beirut to secure its airport and other strategic locations in a decisive move" to end Lebanon's 14-month-old civil war.

A high-ranking Phalangist source with close access to Syrian military information said the Syrians had advanced to within a few miles of Sidon by Wednesday afternoon and that, if they decide to take it, "an advance on Beirut can be expected to follow within a few days."

Both Palestinian and Christian sources denied reports that the Syrians had yet entered the port city.

"They (the Syrians) should be about a few miles east of Sidon by now. We expect them to take it within hours and then to advance to Beirut in perhaps two or three days' time," a Phalangist source with access to Syrian military information said.

But Palestinian sources in Sidon said that the Syrians were still nowhere in sight.

"They have been advancing in this general direction but they are still too few and far away to talk about their capturing Sidon. All is quiet here and we are in control," he said.

No other troop movements were reported, either in the Bekaa or in the northern Akkar region where the Syrian thrust was launched with about 4,000 men. The country had a relatively quiet day while Christian and Moslem leaders met separately to discuss what they should do about the Syrian advance.

Rumors inundated the capital but most proved unfounded.

American and British embassy spokesmen denied a Phalangist radio report that the U.S. Sixth Fleet and British air bases on Cyprus had been alerted to stand by for an evacuation of their nationals from Lebanon.

"As far as this embassy is aware, the Sixth Fleet has made no departure from its routine. There has always been an evacuation contingency plan of course but it has not been put into effect," a U.S. embassy spokesman said.

A British embassy spokesman said "there is no truth" to the report of the British alert.

Western diplomatic sources also said they doubted reports that Syria's air force had been readied to aid Syrian troops in their advance. "We have no reports of this and it is very unlikely that the Syrian air force would become involved," the sources said.

A Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) spokesman also called the alert reports "farfetched."

Israel, meantime, said it was watching Syria's intervention in Lebanon "daily and hourly" but so far the situation did not warrant an Israeli thrust across the border.

"Israel will decide what to do and when to do it according to Syrian moves, including the force that has entered Lebanon and how long they stay there," Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said.

'Super Tuesday' primaries crucial to Ford and Carter

by United Press International

President Ford and Jimmy Carter headed for crucial, perhaps decisive, battles in California, New Jersey and Ohio Wednesday as the long and arduous presidential primary campaign moved into its final week.

With Ronald Reagan in hot pursuit, Ford held a sizable but vulnerable lead going into the three delegate-rich primaries next Tuesday which could decide the GOP presidential nomination.

Carter, far out front among Democrats, battled liberals Jerry Brown, Frank Church and Morris Udall who have mounted a final, desperate campaign to deny the Georgian a first-ballot nomination.

Tuesday's tuneup primaries in Rhode Island, South Dakota and Montana produced a virtual standoff that was not expected to have any impact on next week's showdown results.

Reagan, the conservative crusader from California, won decisively in Montana and narrowly in South Dakota. But Ford trounced Reagan in Rhode Island and finished the night with a net gain of 17 delegates.

Carter beat Udall in South Dakota, once again denying the liberal Ari congressman his first primary victory. But Church beat Carter in Montana and uncommitted delegates, backed by Brown's marathon three-day campaign, finished on top in Rhode Island.

Despite two more defeats, his sixth and seventh in the last 12 primaries, Carter picked up 20 more delegates and boosted his lead to 904 with 1,505 needed for nomination. Udall rea distant second with 308 delegates.

Heading for what has become known as "Super Tuesday," Ford leads Reagan 822 to 651 in pledged delegates. Nomination requires 1,130 votes.

But Reagan is favored to win California's winner-take-all primary and pick up 167 delegates while Ford is expected to take — according to estimates from both camps — the bulk of the delegates from Ohio (97) and New Jersey (67).

If Ford could spring an upset in California, he would be assured a virtual lock on the nomination. If not, he and Reagan probably will have to scramble for votes in caucus states which have not finished their delegate selection, and forage through the uncommitteds.

There are 540 Democratic delegates at stake — 280 in California, 108 in New Jersey and 152 from Ohio.

Although Brown, the 38-year-old governor, is the heavy favorite in homestate California, Carter is expected to carve away some delegates. The former Georgia governor is favored in a three-way fight with Church and Udall in Ohio and faces an uncommitted slate — partial to Brown and Hubert Humphrey — in New Jersey.

Carter, who established himself as the leader with his march through the early primaries, discounted the impact of his latest two defeats.

FDA reports intravenous drug crackdown

The Food and Drug Administration, citing several recalls during the past few years, Wednesday announced a crackdown on the manufacture of intravenous drugs. The agency issued a set of proposed regulations intended to insure the purity and quality of such drugs, an estimated 200 million units of which are used each year to supply body fluids to hospital patients. The agency said it undertook an "intensive review" of the industry practices and "as a result of the FDA review, manufacturers already are changing their processing procedures to meet the proposed standards."

Marines suspend Paris Island DIs

A Marine spokesman said Wednesday an entire team of drill instructors at the Parris Island boot camp has been suspended during an investigation of an incident involving a recruit who was hospitalized with stomach injuries. The spokesman said the suspension involved four drill instructors from the training platoon to which Pvt. Paul B. Sprock, 17 of Old Bridge, N.J., was assigned. Meanwhile, a House subcommittee investigating maltreatment of Marine trainees heard testimony from four recent graduates of boot camp who said the worst punishment they had received was extra calisthenics and having to make their bunks over and over again.

King Carlos welcomed by Ford

President Ford said Wednesday "a new era" opened in Spain with the accession to the throne of King Juan Carlos I, and the king told Congress he would uphold the principles of constitutional monarchy in his "young and renewed nation." Juan Carlos and Queen Sophia were welcomed by Ford on the White House lawn on their first overseas trip since he took the Spanish crown following the death of Francisco Franco. Official ceremonies included a 3,000-word speech by the king to a joint session of Congress.

Quinlan doctors of different views sought

Two doctors who helped keep Karen Ann Quinlan alive for 14 months said Wednesday they would not withhold drugs and food from the comatose woman, but would help her family find physicians with different views. Doctors Robert Morse and Arshad Javed broke a long silence about the so-called "right to die" case, to say they would not end high nutrient feeding and antibiotic treatment for the 22-year-old woman, who has been in a coma since April 15, 1975. The doctors said, however, they would help the Quinlan family find another health facility where other physicians with different medical views may care for Miss Quinlan in accordance with the wishes of her parents.

Auto of reporter probing crime bombed

Don Bolles, a reporter for The Arizona Republic who was reported to be investigating organized crime, was critically injured Wednesday when his car exploded on a Phoenix street. Authorities said his car burned after the explosion. Bolles reportedly told authorities en route to the hospital that he had been investigating organized crime connections in Arizona. He is the author of numerous stories on organized crime.

British pound plummets to $1.72

The beleaguered British pound, losing a penny an hour through the morning, sank below the $1.75 psychological "floor" Wednesday and dived to its lowest level in history. Drowning in a flood of selling from East Europe, Third World and Arab central banks, the pound dropped 4½ cents in four hours before the Bank of England stepped in to slightly revive it. The pound momentarily touched its worst level in history at $1.7150 before rallying early in the afternoon to $1.72 and finally cose at $1.72625.

Flu shots for elderly may be delayed

Drug firm makes wrong vaccine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drug company producing swine flu vaccine accidentally made the wrong kind of vaccine — with the result that inoculations for some Americans may be delayed four to six weeks, it was announced Wednesday.

The Public Health Service said the mistake was discovered during human testing of the vaccine which began April 16. The drug company, Parke-Davis, used a strain of flu which is similar to the swine flu virus isolated from recruits earlier this year at Ft. Dix, N. J.

Some of the test subjects received the incorrect type, the agency said.

Use of the other vaccine, however, "would have caused no harm and would probably have produced the desired immunity against the A-New Jersey virus," said Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant HEW secretary for health.

"However, to insure specificity and effectiveness, the vaccine for general use must be prepared" from the New Jersey strain, he said.

Cooper said Parke-Davis has since changed strains and "significantly increased its production."

But because the earlier batches cannot be used, the start of inoculations for the chronically ill and the elderly may be delayed.

"This high risk group was to begin receiving a combination vaccine against swine-type influenza and A-Victoria influenza in late July," the agency said. "Parke-Davis was the principal producer of this combination vaccine."

The result, Cooper said, is that there probably will not be enough vaccine to begin inoculating the high risk group in July and that the program for them may be delayed from four to six weeks.

The $135 million vaccination program is designed to head off a repetition of the 1918 flu epidemic. Four drug companies are producing the vaccine.

More than 3,200 volunteers — 600 of them children — have participated in human testing.

It was not known exactly how many doses of the incorrect vaccine were turned out by Parke-Davis.

"Of greater significance is that finding the error demonstrates the effectiveness of our surveillance system to assure the quality of the vaccine used in the campaign," Cooper said.

German raiders burn 2 GI trucks

WEISBADEN, West Germany (UPI) — Arsonists raided a U.S. military station Wednesday and authorities said the attackers were probably the same urban guerrillas who bombed a U.S. Army base less than 24 hours earlier to avenge the death of anarchist Ulrike Meinhof.

An air force spokesman said arsonists cut through a fence at the Lindsey Air Station, set fire to two trucks and escaped. The 1st Combat Communications Squadron is based at the station. It has no aircraft.

The spokesman said the air force was investigating whether fire bombs were used in the early morning raid, which was staged despite tightened military security.

Authorities believed left-wing urban guerrillas, who claimed responsibility for the bomb attack Tuesday on the Frankfurt headquarters of the U.S. Army's V. Corps, staged the raid.

Air force firemen put out the fires and no casualties were reported. The two time bombs that exploded Tuesday injured 16 American servicemen, 7 wives of servicemen, an American teen-ager, an American civilian employe of the Army and a West German.

An army spokesman said seven still were in the hospital Wednesday, but all were out of danger.

An organization calling itself the "Ulrike Meinhof Brigade" said in a letter delivered Wednesday it planted the bombs in the V Corps' main headquarters building and officers' club. It said it struck at "the center of the U.S. imperialist occupation army."

Ulrike Meinhof was a leader of West German urban guerrillas. Bomb attacks have taken place throughout West Europe since she killed herself May 9 in her Stuttgart prison cell. Her supporters claim she was murdered.

West German authorities offered a reward of $19,300 for information leading to the arrest of the terrorists. Police released two suspects picked up Tuesday.

"We must assume the motives behind the bombing are political," West German Interior Minister Werner Maihofer said. He called the attack "base."

The U.S. armed forces ordered tight security at their 350 bases in West Germany in fear of new attacks.

Indict lawmaker for illegal alien scheme

NEWARK (UPI) — Rep. Henry Helstoski, D-N.J., was indicted Wednesday on charges of shaking down illegal aliens for at least $8,735 in exchange for the introduction of private citizenship bills for them in Congress.

Three of Helstoski's closest associates, Alfred A. Porro, 41, of Rutherford, N.J.; Vincent L. Verdiramo, 39, of Secaucus, N.J., both attorneys; and D. John Mazella, 65, of East Rutherford, treasurer of the citizens Committee, Helstoski for Congress, were also indicted.

Specifically, Helstoski was charged by a federal grand jury with receiving at least $7,000 in cash from five Chilean and two Argentine aliens in exchange for the private residency bills for themselves and their families.

In lieu of Tuesday settlement

by DIANE GRANAT

The Harper College faculty and board of trustees failed to reach a contract agreement by the midnight Tuesday deadline, but negotiators will return to court Friday to determine further action.

Salary negotiations have continued sinde May 20 when Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen ordered the faculty and board to negotiate on a daily basis until midnight June 1.

Negotiations were at a standstill late Tuesday when the court order and a recognition agreement between the board and the faculty senate ended. The agreement recognized the faculty senate as the bargaining agent for full-time faculty members at the college.

MICHAEL BARTOS, chief faculty negotiator, said he sent a telegram to board negotiators Wednesday afternoon asking them to resume talks.

Both parties are scheduled to appear before Judge Cohen Friday to review the negotiation progress. Bartos said the faculty may seek intervention by Cohen at that time.

Bartos said two major issues not agreed upon during Tuesday's session were the faculty's request that all teachers receive some kind of raise, and the board's refusal to recognize the faculty senate for negotiating purposes for the coming school year, tos said.

The salary raises offered by the board apply to all faculty members except those whose increased pay would exceed salary ranges set by the board, Bartos said.

The board offered either a $1,375 raise to faculty members without any increase for individuals at the top of the range, or a $1,275 increase for all faculty with a $100 bonus for one year to all those who would exceed the ranges set for their jobs, Bartos said.

THE FACULTY requested a 4.4 per cent cost-of-living increase for all faculty members whose salaries exceeded the top range, and a $1,375 raise for all others, Bartos said.

Bartos said the board has also refused to recognize the senate as the bargaining agent for the Harper faculty. "After nine years they have taken away our recognition," Bartos said.

Trustee Robert Rausch, chief board negotiator, said the board has "serious concerns about these issues." In regard to extending the recognition agreement, Rausch said "the board is going to have to study the matter very deliberately and calmly."

The Harper faculty voted last month to affiliate with the American Federation of Teachers, a national teachers' union. Bartos said he felt one reason why the board would not extend the recognition agreement was because "they were incensed that we affiliated."

CONTRACT TALKS between the board and faculty began early this year but stopped abruptly April 1 with the board declaring negotiations had ended.

After negotiations ended, the board granted a $1,275 salary increase to all faculty members, unless their salary would exceed the top range set for their jobs.

Maximum salaries established by the board in December are $18,250 for instructors, $21,000 for assistant professors, $24,140 for associate professors and $27,760 for professors.

AFTER THE board set salaries in April, the faculty obtained an injunction preventing the board from mailing contracts to the faculty until June 1. The faculty also sought the ruling from Judge Cohen which ordered the board back to the bargaining table.

The board appealed Judge Cohen's decision to the Illinois Appellate Court and the Illinois Supreme Court but both courts refused to overturn the lower court ruling.

Last week Judge Cohen dismissed the faculty's request to find the board in contempt of court for not bargaining in good faith.

Panel approves law to control feeding of birds

The Des Plaines City Council code and judiciary committee Wednesday gave its stamp of approval to a proposed ordinance that would limit the feeding of birds.

The ordinance goes to the full council for consideration during a regular meeting Monday night. If approved, it would be the first step toward retaliating against flocks of pigeons that monopolize the 1600 and 1700 blocks of Lunt and Greenwood avenues.

The ordinance would prohibit residents from providing more than 25 pounds of birdseed outside on their property on a daily basis. A two-pound limit originally proposed in the ordinance, which was drafted by City Atty. Charles Hug, was amended to 25 pounds during the committee meeting at city hall.

"MANY PEOPLE in the city place 5 or 10 pounds of seed outside for the birds in the winter," said Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, committee chairman.

"I think we need to cite a reasonable pound limit in the ordinance so that all our residents won't be in violation of it," he said.

Committee members and 6th Ward Aldermen Carmen Sarlo and Robert Kraves agreed the ordinance was drafted specifically to curtail the problem on the city's south side.

Ken Lundvick, 1665 Greenleaf Ave., said he lives behind a family that provides about $1,200 of feed each year for the pigeons from backyard feeders.

"FOR THE PAST three years the bird droppings have stained the sides of my house. We can't use the backyard and the noise and smell is unbearable," he said.

Lundvick termed the proposed ordinance "a start," but admitted the measure may only deter the problem.

Abrams instructed the city attorney to investigate whether residents who are providing "copious amounts of seed to the birds" could be prosecuted for causing a public nuisance under an existing ordinance.

Other aldermen at the meeting suggested the city may need to consider ways of eliminating the pigeons if the proposed ordinance is passed but proves ineffective.

City recycling center turning out $677 profit

The Des Plaines recycling center has collected 94.5 tons of glass, cans and waste paper in the first four months of the year and is continuing to show a profit.

Philip Lindahl, Des Plaines environmental officer, said the recycling center, Oakton Avenue and Lee Street, has shown a profit of $677.08 since December 1975. Money raised from recycling operations goes to the city's sanitation department, Lindahl said.

"We've done pretty well. Many people from many suburban communities come out here to recycle their paper, cans and glass," said Lindahl. "We were still able to show a profit even after paying people to man the center."

THE RECYCLING center, which began operation in 1974, is open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 8 p.m.; Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays from 1 to 6 p.m.

About 60 service organizations in Des Plaines provide labor to man the center, and attendants are paid $2 an hour. Staffing the operations costs the city $50 a week, Lindhl said.

Since January of this year, 27.5 tons of glass, seven tons of metal cans and 60 tons of paper have been deposited at the recycling center. The materials are sold to recycling middlemen or to manufacturing firms.

Last year, the center collected 84.5 tons of glass, 18.5 tons of metal cans and 281 tons of paper. If the current trend continues, the center will collect about as much glass and cans as it did in 1975, but 100 tons less paper.

LINDAHL SAID it's really too early to tell how much the center will collect this year, but said more might be deposited if the public was better informed.

Paper is sold for about $25 a ton, while high-grade white paper, used in most offices, brings $50 a ton. Colored glass is sold at $10 a ton; clear glass, $30; tin cans, $30; and aluminum, $300 a ton.

"This aluminum recycling rtally sweetens the profit side of the ledger for recycle operations," said Lindahl.

Cash, firearms taken in apartment heist

Some $1,500 in cash, collectors' coins, a goldware set, a rifle and shotgun were stolen when burglars entered the apartment of Barbara Walters, 601 Huntington Commons Dr., Mount Prospect, police said Wednesday.

Ms. Walters told police she returned home shortly after 1 p.m. and found a front door to the residence open.

Police also said an eight-track tape player and a case of beer valued at $100 were stolen Tuesday when thieves entered an auto owned by Steve Bruner, 622 Pine St.

The thieves entered Bruner's garage to get to the car.

Busse Woods youth hangout, ranger says

by WANDALYN RICE

The Ned Brown Forest Preserve has apparently replaced other Northwest suburban preserves as the headquarters for bands of rowdy young persons, the chief of the forest preserve rangers said Wednesday.

Ranger Chief Richard Sloan said other area forest preserves, including past trouble spots in Deer Grove, Palatine Township, and Beck Lake, Northfield Township, have been relatively trouble free this spring.

"We have no problems this year at Deer Grove," Sloan said. "We cleaned that up and we'll clean Busse Woods up too." Busse Woods is in Ned Brown Forest Preserve, Elk Grove Township.

Sloan said the forest ranger patrols have been beefed up in Busse Woods and the ranger's special task force which deals with special problems also has been sent to the area.

ON MONDAY rangers made about a dozen arrests for offenses ranging from possession of marijuana or other dangerous drugs to obstructing police, Sloan said.

"The undesirables come from all over," Sloan said. "Some come from Libertyville or as far away as Indiana and others come from Elk Grove Village."

Sloan said he doesn't know why Busse Woods should have more problems this year than other forest preserves. "The word just seems to get around that that's where to go," he said.

Radio play the target

Record album promotions—they all take lots of push and album-oriented stations such as WBBM, Chicago and WYEN, Des plaines.

"I can't walk into WLS (Chicago) with a new single," Lufman said. He added it takes about 10 weeks of buildup before WLS will handle a new song, especially by an unknown group.

LUFMAN SAID his credibility with the program directors is very important.

"It is not what they don't play, it is what they play that is wrong which hurts them," he said. "If they say no, you have to go elsewhere and create the excitement so you can go back later."

On occasion, such as when two different recordings of the same song are released about the same time, Lufman will rush test pressings of a record to the radio stations. The finished product will follow, once the initial exposure has been obtained.

In addition to radio airplay, there are gimmicks that help sell records. One is radio give-aways after an album has been getting some reaction.

"It's like free advertising. It's the cheapest form of advertising we've got," Lufman said.

About this time comes radio advertising of another sort — the paid kind. It usually consists of parts of several songs together with the names of local stores where the album can be bought.

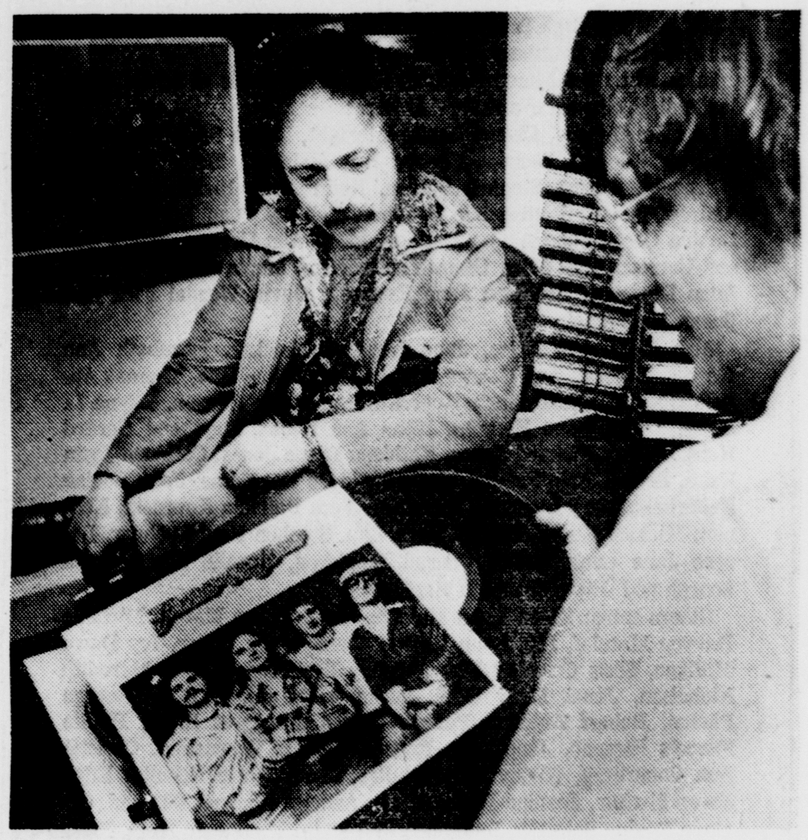
"YOU'RE USUALLY ABLE to get a token amount if any album in the stores. You're usually dealing with the rackers (record middlemen) and the stores really don't know what they have on the shelf," Lufman said.

"The record company is the only one that can get hurt if we push the wrong product, because stores can always return unsold records," he said.

If things start to happen for a new group or solo performer, a tour will be set up. Lufman said a record company often will subsidize a tour in order to obtain that kind of exposure which generates sales. Along with touring comes radio and newspaper interviews and local appearances in record stores.

Sooner or later, however, comes a decision time — when do you quit on an album that's going nowhere?

"You know how far you can go. If nothing is happening, then, you stop," Lufman said.



DJ ROB REYNOLDS of station WYEN, Des Plaines, pulls out a copy of the Faragher Bros. album to play while ABC Records promo man Lenny Lufman watches. Lufman said he is pushing the Richard Perry production credit because "big money producers show you really believe in a group."

Stork beats paramedics by minutes

The Schaumburg Fire Dept. paramedics arrived a little late Wednesday morning to answer expectant mother Marilyn Westfall's call.

Mrs. Westfall greeted the paramedics holding her newborn daughter, the baby the paramedics had been dispatched to help deliver.

The baby, Michelle Renee, arrived at about 7:45 a.m. Wednesday in an unexpected, unattended delivery at the Westfall's Sheffield Towne home. She weighed six pounds, one ounce.

"I hadn't planned on natural childbirth," Mrs. Westfall, 26, laughed from her Alexian Brothers Medical Center room Wednesday.

"BY THE TIME they (the paramedics) got there, I had to walk down a flight of stairs with the baby to open the door for them," she said. "There I was with the baby."

The child, the Westfalls' first, was born less than three hours after James Westfall, 26, had left for his job at O'Hare Airport, where he is an equipment servicer for Northwest Orient Airlines.

Mrs. Westfall had attempted to reach her husband and her physician, Dr. William Matviuw, when she realized the baby's birth, not due until today, was imminent.

"I called operations at Northwest and I asked the man if my husband was there. I must have sounded horrible and he said, 'Are you having a baby?' but he didn't realize I was having it then.

"WHAT'S FUNNY IS I was here (in the hospital) last night because I hadn't been feeling good all day. They told me I was having false labor," she said. "I came in in the afternoon and they sent me home in the evening.

"But from about 9 p.m. last night I had been having twinges and I still had them at 5 a.m. when my husband was leaving for work."

"I don't even believe it. I'm so thankful it's over and I thank my lucky stars she was small."

Schaumburg fire Lt. John Dixon, who along with Firefighter Terry O'Callahan arrived at the Westfall home, said he had assisted in deliveries before but never arrived late to one.

"This is the first time I've had something like this," Dixon said.

"I feel fine and they say she (the baby) is doing fine," Mrs. Westfall said. "We're real happy we have a girl because we both kind of wanted a girl, but I definitely want Jim there the next time."

Oakton picked as a depository for publications

Oakton Community College has been designated a depository for U.S. Government publications, making it one of two official depositories in the 10th Congressional District.

Federal documents, reports and publications will be available at the Oakton library. Joseph F. Borowski, director of learning resources at the college, said Oakton has been purchasing about $2,000 worth of the publications annually.

"This will enable the Oakton library to provide students and the people of the district with much better service," he said.

Because of limited space at the interim campus, 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove, Oakton will be a partial depository until the permanent college campus in Des Plaines is completed in 1978.

Oakton will receive the first volume for the depository program in July, Borowski said. Most publications will be merged into the regular library collection, which totals 38,000 volumes.

Publications in the depositories are available at no cost to the general public within the 10th District and remain the property of the U.S. government.

The other 10th District depository is located at Northwestern University, Evanston.

Chuck Wagon Day slated at Maryville

The fifth annual Chuck Wagon Day to raise funds for Maryville Academy in Des Plaines will be held from 2 to 8 p.m. June 27.

About 35 Chicago sports figures will attend the event and will compete in volleyball and other games. Ernie Banks, Stan Mikita, Tony Zale, Abe Gibron, Bob Love, Ron Santo and Gary Huff are among those scheduled to attend.

Maryville is a residence for children who are wards of the state. The facilities include a home for 325 children in Des Plaines, group homes in Chicago and Maywood, and a camp in Clearwater Lake, Wis.

The Chuck Wagon Day will be held at the Des Plaines campus, Central and River roads. Refreshments will be served and entertainment will include bands, booths with prizes, rides and clowns. Door prizes also will be given away.

Announcing a key system with advanced features for companies with 10 to 30 telephones.

If your company has been expanding, or you're thinking about moving, you'll certainly want to know about this modern system.

It offers convenience features that will help your people get things done faster.

Take the intercom. Your operator can tell you who's calling, and you can talk to her, all without lifting the handset. This same feature works even while you're already on another call, and lets you know who's waiting to talk to you. If it's important, you can get right on it.

There's a privacy feature, too. No one can listen in on your calls unless you let them. It also prevents others from inadvertently dialing out on busy lines, or interrupting ongoing calls.

There are some very interesting options you can use to tailor-make your system even more. Like the multi-trunk conference feature that lets you talk to two outside calls at the same time.

Or you can have music, or a prerecorded message, played to a caller while he's on hold and waiting to be connected.

There are so many more time-saving and convenience features you'll want to know about them.

Hays' sexploits to face investigation by panel

The House Ethics Committee voted unanimously Wednesday to investigate sex scandal allegations involving U.S. Rep. Wayne Hays. Speaker Carl Albert said Hays is "very depressed" and is "seriously considering" demands to resign his committee chairmanships.

The 12-member ethics panel, with Democrat Olin Teague of Texas absent, voted to conduct an immediate investigation — starting perhaps as early as Thursday — of Elizabeth Ray's allegations that Hays put her on the administration committee staff at $14,000 to serve as his mistress.

Shortly after the committee acted, Albert disclosed he met Wednesday with Hays at the Ohio Democrat's request to discuss growing pressures for his resignation from key committee leadership posts.

"He is seriously considering the whole situation, what he should do if anything," Albert said. "I don't think he intends to resign and I think he's not even considering resigning from the House."

BUT ALBERT said Hays "does not want to do anything that would hurt the House."

He described Hays as "very depressed" and said, "I don't want to to his depression at this stage of the game."

House Democratic leader Thomas O'Neill met with Hays later and pressed him to give up "temporarily" his chairmanships of the Administration Committee and the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee.

Hays left the meeting by a side door and could not be reached, but O'Neill said Hays planned a "statement in the morning on his plans for the future," and "I have a good idea what his statement is going to be."

IN A BRIEF statement, O'Neill said, "Mr. Hays has been accused and I hope the accusations are wrong."

But, he said, "it is my belief that any man in the Congress of the United States who finds himself in the same circumstances should step down temporarily from his duties as chairmen of his committees, in fairness to his fellow colleagues until the case has been adjudicated."

Albert said he told Hays that "the impression I get from the members is that they are most concerned about the campaign committee from their personal standpoint."

Albert also said "he told me that girl (Miss Ray) worked, that there was no question about that." Miss Ray said she did no work in her congressional staff job except entertain Hays.

IN OTHER ACTION, U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, and six other congressmen have begun circulating a resolution to be submitted June 16 to the House Democratic Caucus. The resolution asks the caucus, which is composed of all Democratic members of Congress, to vote to remove Hays from his chairmanships.

The resolution says the congressmen are not finding Hays guilty of any wrongdoing, but they believe it is in the best interest of Congress for him to step down from his leadership posts while an investigation is conducted.

Mikva aides said they believe the Democratic caucus will vote to remove Hays from the two chairmanships. Freshmen House Democrats in the past have been successful in using the caucus to remove committee chairmen.

Gas dealer spokesman objects

Fire official mulls lifting self-service pump ban

by LEA TONKIN

Bargain-hunting Illinois motorists will be able to pump their own gas at local service stations starting in late 1976 if controversial new regulations are approved by Illinois Fire Marshal Robert G. Walsh.

Walsh said he is seeking comments from consumers and other citizens on the proposed elimination of the self-service ban in the state. "I'm no authority on economics. But I've heard that where they have self-service in other states, there's generally a 3 to 5 cents savings in gasoline prices per gallon," he said.

State codes prohibit self-service gasoline sales as a potential fire hazard to the public. "We're trying to determine the degree of hazard," Walsh said. He plans to call a June 23 meeting in Springfield with oil industry and retail spokesmen, for a second discussion on the self-service concept.

I AM OPPOSED to the idea of self-service unattended," Walsh said. "It's my opinion that an attendant would have to be there to control the sale of gasoline." He added that a decision on self-service sales can be made by early fall.

Support for the self-service concept is not universal. "It's outrageous that the state fire marshal, who is supposed to be protecting the safety of the public, would be increasing such hazards by allowing self-service sales of gasoline and other flammable liquids," said Philip Krone, lobbyist for the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Assn.

Krone said he represents association executive director Robert Jacobs in his objection to self-service. "It's especially shocking that this official, appointed by a lame-duck governor, would be considering changing the rules when the general assembly has on repeated occasions refused to legalize self-service by statute," Krone said. He predicts Illinois Senate Bill 1541 and House Bill 326, which would allow for self-service, will die in committee.

"The attempt to get self-service is being engineered by the powerful oil industry, and it would be unfortunate for Mr. Walsh to serve their self-serving interests," Krone said. The change in service regulations would help Gov. Walker reduce his debts and aid oil companies in the elimination of competition, he said.

KRONE SAID consumers will be hurt by the cutback of maintenance and service work at gas stations. He urged consumers to comment on Walsh's "disgusting sneak play."

Krone says that preservation of jobs is a "secondary" reason for objections to self-service.

Bill Krick, director of employe and community affairs at the Union Oil Co.'s Union 76 Division in Palatine disputes the claim that self-service limits the availability of repair service. Approximately 30 per cent of the gasoline sold in states where self-service is allowed is pumped by customers, Krick said.

"Self-service is in all but three states," Krick said. He believes motorists should have the option to choose full-service or self-service gasoline stations. The "friendly neighborhood station" is less likely to offer self-service than high-volume stations on major highways, Krick said. He estimates the cost savings to consumers who choose self-service could amount to 3 to 5 cents a gallon.

Walsh said consumer opinion on the self-service gasoline sales proposal can be sent to: State Fire Marshal, 610 Armory Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Volunteers needed for tag day Friday

Volunteers are needed for the Salvation Army's Friday doughnut tag day in the Northwest suburbs.

Hoffman Estates Village Pres. Virginia Hayter, board chairman of suburban counseling centers, said volunteers working two hours Friday could make the difference in the drive's outcome.

"This has always been an area where the suburbs have helped," Ms. Hayter said. "Programs are really in the red this year. The budget has been cut 10 per cent."

She said the organization doesn't believe it can cut back on services, but it also cannot meet its budget responsibilities.

The Salvation Army also receives funds from Maine and Wheeling townships and the United Fund.

Persons interested in working for tag day may contact Mrs. Hayter at 885-8490 or 885-4578. Persons also may contact Sue Palmer at 537-3268 for names of local tag day coordinators.

Unemployment pay to increase $3-$4

Increased benefits for some 325,000 people who receive unemployment insurance in Illinois have been announced by the Illinois Dept. of Labor.

Effective July 1, the new maximum weekly benefits payable to unemployment insurance claims will be $106 for a single person, a $3 increase and $127 for a married person with a non-working spouse, a $4 increase. Maximum benefits for a person with children remains at $135.

The increase is the second since July 1, 1975, when a new law took effect requiring that benefits be adjusted to keep up with the increasing cost of living.

Joint park use backed

The financial future of Illinois park districts appears bleak despite efforts by local officials and park district directors to organize a legislative lobby in Springfield.

A 10-point legislative package proposed last year by John Woods, former Arlington Heights village president, to bolster the position of park districts, has failed to stimulate a stronger park district position in the state. A coalition of area park districts failed last year to gain a per capita share of income tax funds, and it appears unlikely that other fund raising efforts will win approval in the General Assembly this year.

At the same time, the growth in many suburban communities, which allowed parks and recreational facilities to be built along with housing and commercial developments, has slowed, causing park directors to propose referendums to increase taxes or to cut programs.

With such an apparently limited immediate future, how will park districts continue to provide quality recreation for their residents?

We believe Thomas Thornton, Arlington Heights park district director, has an idea worth consideration, particularly in the Northwest suburbs.

Thornton said joint use of facilities is the way of the future, if not the road to salvation for park districts.

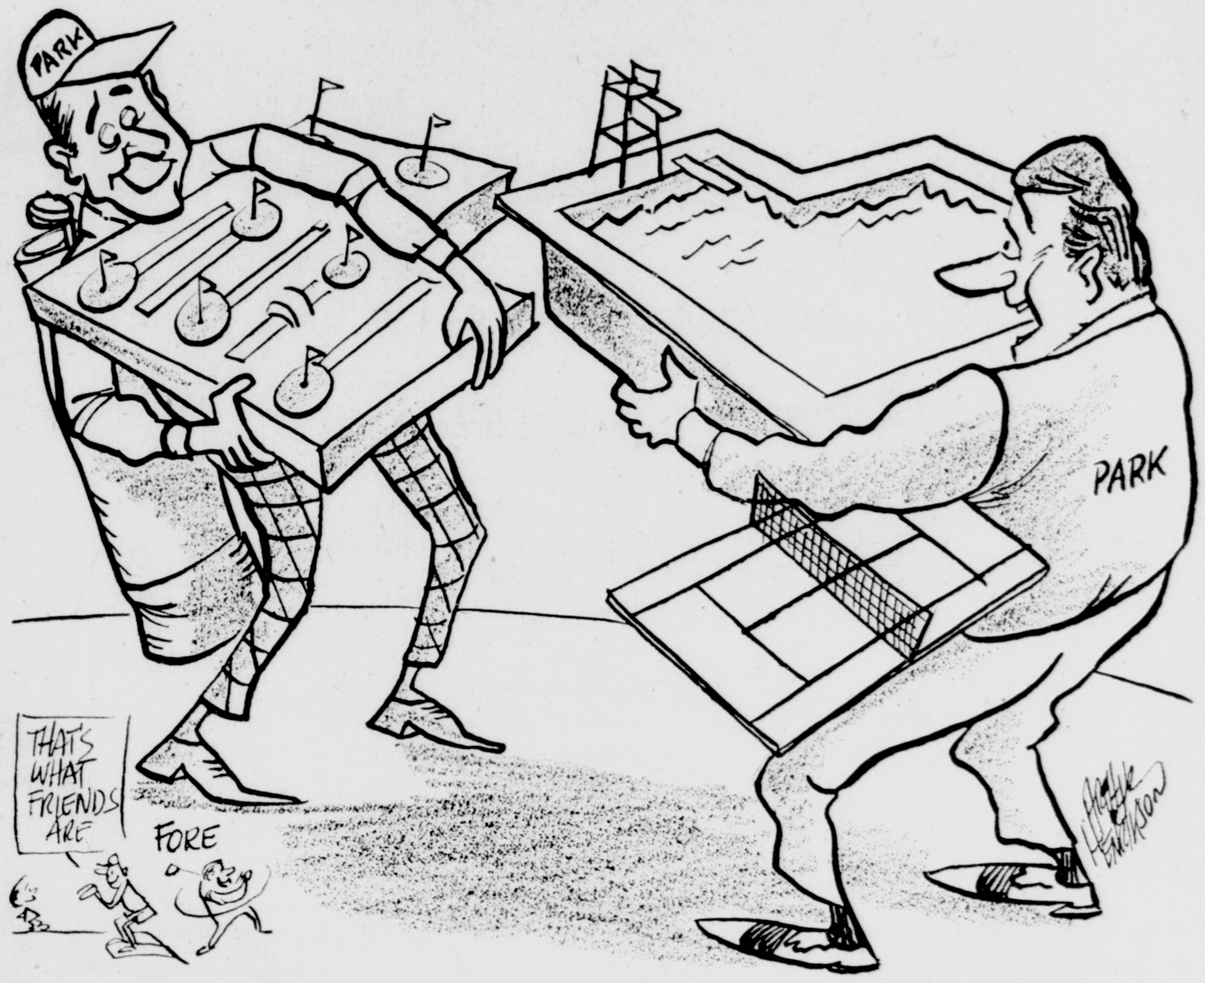
Thornton, however, went a step further. He said park districts soon will be faced with the choice of banding together for survival as separate government units or else being absorbed by municipalities and operated as a municipal department.

We don't necessarily agree with his broad interpretation of cooperation, but we do agree that park districts, particularly suburban districts, should consider shared use of facilities.

Take our area as a good example of the variety of recreation facilities which exist in neighboring districts. Rolling Meadows has an indoor ice arena. Arlington Heights has indoor swimming pools and a tennis club. Palatine and Buffalo Grove golf courses are among the finest in the area. There are many other fine facilities in local park districts which would be used by suburban residents if available to them.

As Thornton said, inequality of facilities may be a stumbling block. But we believe that could be worked out to the satisfaction of park commissioners, residents and taxpayers.

A strong, unified park system will give residents of this area quality recreational facilities and also will give the park district a stronger voice with the General Assembly where ultimately it will be needed.



Trade you the use of your facilities for the use of my facilities

BALTIMORE, Md., June 3 — George Somerville was called before the county committee on charges by Miss Mary K. Goddard that he had invaded her office at the Maryland Journal and Baltimore Gazette to upbraid her for an article she had published. On grounds "his conduct had a direct tendency to influence the freedom of the press," Somerville was ordered to post bond for his future good behavior.

Film violence law: Wait and see

Mayor Richard J. Daley and the Chicago City Council are attempting to do something about violence in motion pictures, but they are getting mixed reviews from a broad spectrum of national critics.

While recognizing the basis for concern that led to an ordinance, we offer a word of caution to public officals in the Northwest suburbs to go slow in any attempt to emulate Chicago's untested effort.

Violent movies are a problem in America. In the past, most of the attempts to force the movie industry to show more concern for the influence it has on its viewers have been aimed at pornography rather than violence.

The efforts by Chicago officials to limit the showing of super-violent films to adults should be praised.

There have been many reports of crimes being inspired by such films.

However, we must also voice some concern over the new law. Before we can fully support the Chicago plan, we must see how it operates and which films are barred from movie houses. There is a chance for the system to be abused, and Chicago officials should be cautioned to use this new self-assumed power cautiously.

We must also caution local officials, who share concern over violent films, to take a wait-and-see attitude toward this approach.

Jimmy Carter's enigma

A permapressed, non-fade smile on the frontrunner

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anyone old enough to remember the start of the 1976 presidential campaign undoubtedly will recall the puzzlement that arose over Jimmy Carter's entry.

"Who is this man and why is he smiling?" was the question on the voters' lips.

By now, of course, everyone knows who Carter is. But the smile remains an enigma. The widely held assumption that he was smiling over his primary victories has been rendered null and void by the disclosure that he also smiles after his primary defeats.

Although I don't claim to have the complete answer, I did run across one possible explanation in a piece written by Woody Allen. It alluded to a person who "required two days advance notice to stop grinning."

Maybe — I'm only theorizing here — maybe it takes Carter 48 hours to get his smile stopped. If so, that would explain why he smiles after losing a primary.

Political protocol only requires a primary candidate to smile until the polls close, usually about 7 p.m. Once the returns start coming in, he is free to wear the facial expression of his choice.

But under the condition described by Allen, a candidate would have to douse his smile by midnight Sunday in order to get it shut down in time to register the emotions traditionally associated with losing a Tuesday primary.

I checked this out with Dr. Cheshire Phizbeam, one of the world's leading smile authorities, and he agreed such might be the case with Carter.

"There is a phenomenon that we smilologists refer to as 'afterglow,'" Phizbeam said. "When it occurs, a person's face remains lit up for some time after he has ceased smiling.

"I have never personally examined Carter's smile and thus cannot analyze it definitively. However, it stands to reason a high intensity smile such as his would produce a strong afterglow."

He said a smile of that nature was somewhat similar to a blast furnace in a steel mill.

"You can't turn it on and off instantaneously. It takes time to build it up to peak efficiency and its radiance lingers after the motivating force is terminated."

I said, "Is that the same thing as a frozen smile?"

"No, indeed. A frozen, or fixed, smile occurs when the facial muscles become locked while in the smiling position. In mild cases, the victim usually is able to wipe the smile off his face. But sometimes surgery is required to remove it."

It was Phizbeam who established some years ago that sickly smiles were caused by vitamin deficiencies and that stiff smiles were caused by starchy diets. Asked what kind of food produced healthy smiles, he recommended peanuts.

Do not wait to reopen Kennedy investigation

Your May 17 editorial on the feasibility of reopening the JFK investigation shows not only incredible naivete, but more importantly your support for a distressingly common view put forth by our federal government; namely, that the American people are not capable of handling the truth, and coming up with their own conclusions.

First, you dogmatically state that "this is not the proper time . . . to re-open the investigation into the assassination of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy." My answer to this is simple, if not obvious; just when is the 'right' time in your estimation to investigate a crime of such magnitude? The details of the solution to JFK's murder could well prove to be of more national and international importance, than presidential primaries and national political conventions.

Secondly, you sow the seeds of paranoia by claiming that such an investigation's credibility would be destroyed by Sen. Church's political activities. Where was your outcry against politics influencing the Warren Commission findings?

Additionally, solving the murder of JFK is an important issue to the American people as you properly suggest. Why, then, should it not be another issue to consider in selecting our next president, just as Watergate, the economy or even a candidate's health are? Should all the candidates abandon work on committees they are on? Or is the point obvious that solving FJK's assassination is more important to increasing number of Americans than are questions concerning peanut subsidies, etc.,

FINALLY, WHAT pessimism possesses you to suggest that the American people cannot cope simultaneously with national conventions and a full investigation into the assassination? Further delay can only be detrimental — giving more time for further cover-ups!

Hopefully, your article will accomplish exactly the opposite of its intent. The way you see it, editors, is not precisely the way the American public may see it.

Arlington Heights

Angered by city's apathy

As a 28-year-old housewife and a three-year resident of the newly formed City of Prospect Heights, I was saddened and angered with the light turnout of residents who participated in our recent election. My husband and I have always voted, and we believe the right to vote to be a privilege and at the same time an obligation to ourselves and our community.

This election was a wonderful opportunity for the residents to vote on issues, not political rhetoric or party loyalties. Without sounding like a flag waver, I would think that in this Bicentennial year our responsible citizenry would take more than an average interest in our new legislators and the future of Prospect Heights. The non-voters in last Saturday's election are always the ones who complain about their representatives, are angered about corruption and deceit in government and state their vote "would not make any difference." These are flimsy excuses in the light of the small margin of victory in some of the races. It is too late to vote again, but next time, let's get out and spend the 10 minutes to exercise our very precious right. The only problem is that the 33 per cent of those who did vote, are probably the same 33 per cent of interested people who are reading this.

Jan Lohrentz
Prospect Heights

P.S. I wish to commend The Herald for its excellent coverage of the election and the candidates.

Dist. 25 support lauded

On May 8 voters in School Dist. 25 approved a referendum to increase the tax rate in the educational fund. We believe that the referendum's success will greatly benefit the district's children and enable us to maintain more programs for a great length of time with the hope that a change in the state aid formula or inflation rate will emerge in the future.

The referendum was successful because so many persons contributed a great deal of time and effort in its behalf. I would like to thank PTA members, other residents and our staff for explaining the ramifications of the issue to the community — and The Herald for its well documented and supportive editorial.

For those residents who were quoted as being against the referendum but who will have to live with the vote of the majority, I would like to speak to some of your comments. Even if state aid continues to decrease and inflation continues to increase and the district is forced to make major program cuts in the future, the funds from the referendum will still help by hopefully keeping class size to a manageable number or by retaining more programs than we could otherwise afford. In the meantime, if we have helped some children with learning disabilities learn to adjust to and cope with their problem by having special teachers for them or if we have helped others conquer reading problems, then we believe the funds were well spent.

OUR COMMUNITY is made up of persons with diverse interests, many of whom work hard for issues in which they believe. Senior citizens appear before the Wheeling Township board requesting funds and before a school board requesting programs for older residents; a group of interested residents requests funds to create a Historical Society, and so on. Their successful efforts ultimately enrich the whole community.

Our community lives are intertwined. Senior citizens pay taxes for education their own children no longer need, but some parents of today's school children willingly perform volunteer services for senior citizens. Camp Fire Girls and Scout troops affectionately make gifts for residents of homes for the aged.

We communicated the declining enrollments problems to the community in nine public meetings, at which we asked residents for their educational values and concerns. We went by those values and concerns when making our decisions on budget cuts for next year. Many persons who attended these meetings asked us to have a referendum. In fact, the only responsible choice for a board facing severe financial cuts is to let the community have an opportunity to voice an opinion. We tried to explain the issue to everyone by sending a newsletter to all addresses in the district.

I can assure you we will continue to look for additional ways to save money and that your tax dollars will be spent as carefully as possible.

Joan Klussmann, President
Dist. 25 Board of Education

Plant pluckers beware, nature doesn't need you

by LEA TONKIN

They call them plant pluckers and animal pluckers too.

What they really turn out to be though is simply overzealous wildlife and plant enthusiasts who are robbing the countryside of rare species of plants and animals.

Conrad Drust, naturalist at the Crabtree Nature Center near Palatine said the well meaning citizens are a problem. "It certainly is a growing problem as more people are interested in wildlife," he said.

A National Wildlife Magazine spokesman said plant plucking and other pressures threaten some 3,000 of the 22,000 native American plant species.

RATIONALIZING THAT "one small plant will not be missed," collectors decimate rare pants such as the leathery grape fern and ram's head lady slipper.

Once the collector decides which plants to take, almost nothing can stop him. The magazine spokesman said ultimately many plants do not survive the transplant.

The spokesman offers this advice: study endangered species lists; don't patronize florists who take endangered species; give preference to seed grown exhibits at garden shows.

"The criteria here is that these things cannot be removed without the permission of the property owner," the Crabtree naturalist said. "And in state and municipal land holdings, collection of wildlife may also be prohibited.

WILDLIFE HUNTERS can check the Illinois Dept. of Conservation office in Chicago for information on wildlife protection laws. The telephone number is 793-3645.

Conservation Dept. director Tony Dean said "Look but don't touch" is a good thought to keep in mind during wildlife walks. Each year thousands of seemingly abandoned wildlife are adopted by the public.

"Their intentions are good, but actually they probably have insured the death of the animal they are trying to save," Dean said. "In addition they are violating a state law prohibiting such actions." He said the Conservation Dept. can be contacted if an animal appears to be abandoned.

Most animals removed from the wild are kept as household pets. Dean said they are usually released after the animals have bitten a family member or otherwise become a uisance. A bite could mean a series of rabies shots for the victim. The animal will probably die shortly after its release because it hasn't learned the ways of the forest, Dean said.

Hart here for Mikva fundraiser

U.S. Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., will appear Sunday at a fundraiser for U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, in Evanston.

Hart served as U.S. Sen. George McGovern's 1972 presidential campaign manager. He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1974.

The Colorado Democrat is a member of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence that recently issued a report on reported abuses in the U.S. intelligence community. Hart has been named a member of a permanent committee to oversee the operation of various spy agencies.

The brunch will start at 12:30 p.m. at 1045 Judson, Evanston. Tickets, which are priced at $25 per person, may be obtained by calling 492-1120.

Astrology lessons to start Monday

Weekly astrology lessons will begin Monday evening in the Gladstone Glen recreation complex, 2000 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

Chart construction and interpretation will be taught by Ron Watson from 7 to 10 p.m. each Monday for five weeks. Cost for the course is $40.

Rolling Meadows, Arlington meet today

Igrasek battles Mertins in league baseball finals

by JIM COOK

John Igrasek

John Mertins

Arlington has one foot in the hole and Rolling Meadows is carrying the shovel as the long-anticipated Mid-Suburban League championship rematch between division titlists resumes today at Arlington at 4:30.

The best-of-three playoff series actually began inconspicuously on April 29 when Meadows handed the Cardinals their first defeat of the season, 6-3.

The regular-season contest counts as the first game of the playoff, thus setting the stage for the Mustangs to clinch their second consecutive league championship today.

An Arlington victory would force the deciding game Friday at 3 p.m. at a site determined by a coin flip.

The Mustangs are hoping to follow the same script as last year. The two teams met for all the marbles after Meadows topped the Cardinals during the regular season.

Arlington tied the series by winning the first post-season game in 1975 before Meadows dramatically captured the trophy in the finale, 2-1.

The Mustangs' victory over Arlington earlier this season appeared academic at the time. Meadows stumbled to three successive defeats out of the league starting gate and seemed headed for a dismal campaign.

"We just weren't getting the key hits when we needed them," Mustang head coach Al Otto remembers. "We were playing good baseball, but just weren't scoring any runs."

After the triumph over Arlington made the Mustangs a .500 club at 3-3, they reeled off 13 triumphs in the next 16 games, annexing a district championship and a berth in the regional finals along the way. Meadows will carry a 12-6 conference mark, and an 18-7 overall mark into today's contest.

Arlington, on the other hand, was nearly invincible all season long, winning their first seven tests and posting an awesome 18-3 overall mark, 15-2 in the MSL's North Division.

"A lot of people talk about our hitting," Card coach Fran Somers said. "If someone goes into a slump, it seems like someone else picks him up. These kids have been playing together for three years and they've always hit."

No less than 10 Arlington players have at least seven hits in the league this season, but despite scoring 103 runs, only one has been a homer.

The Cardinals are wearing some of the most formidable credentials ever achieved in the playoff series.

Somers' outfit is averaging a staggering 7.2 runs per game while limiting the opposition to a mere 1.5. They've won games 20-0, 18-0, 16-1 and 14-1 during the course of the campaign and own six season shutouts.

Arlington boasts the league's premier pitcher in junior John Mertins who has registered an impeccable 8-0 record. Mertins' forte is his control which is underlined by the statistic that the righthander has only walked two in 50-1/3 innings of work while fanning 58. His earned run average is a paltry 0.86.

Mertins opponent today will be fireballing Mustang ace John Igrasek whose 4-3 league record is an injustice to his sparkling 1.18 ERA. Igrasek has whiffed 60 and walked 22 in a shade over 47 innings.

While the attention will focus on pitching, Somers and Otto also place great stress on defense. Both clubs are loaded with sure infield gloves and blistering speed in the outfield.

"The key for us will be to keep their first two men off the bases," Somers complimented Mustangs Paul Marsillo and Guy Tenuta.

"When they get on, they make things happen for them with base stealing and taking the extra base on hits. We hope our catcher Don Stebbins can slow them down."

Marsillo (a .480 hitter) is the Mid-Suburban's all-time base thief with 18 swipes while Tenuta is also a majority stockholder in the team's 43 steals for the year.

Arlington boasts base-stealing potential in the likes of shifty Matt Split and Mike Mayerck, but the Cardinals' heavy hitting has enabled baserunners to live less dangerously.

Mayerck is slamming an even .400 while Splitt, the Cards' leadoff man, is swatting at a .370 clip.

But if Mertins and Igrasek display the form that has propelled their respective teams to this classic rematch, baserunners may become extinct.

SACKING OUT is Fremd's Connie Bruns during a lull in the action of the Mid-Suburban softball championship game at Fremd. Patrolling first base is Lorrie Kountz, who led Hoffman to a 9-4 victory. Kountz had four hits in five at bats.

Costly game

Golf's 50c a hole, 33c a swing in suburbs

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

Pro golfers aren't the only ones playing the big money game.

If you've played several rounds or been to the driving ranges in the Northwest Suburbs, you know what I mean.

But if you were planning to hit the links for the first time last weekend and were rained out, you might be interested in the following facts:

- It will cost you $1 more to play at five of the 17 full-size area courses I contacted (see accompanying survey chart). Nine others upped their prices lesser amounts.
- If you play one course — Old Orchard — at prime time (mornings) on weekends, it will run you $9. That's 50 cents per hole or 10 cents a swing if you shoot 90.
- Six others — Arlington CC, Buffalo Grove GC, Chevy Chase CC, Mount Prospect CC, Rob Roy GC and Glendale CC — are charging $8.50 on weekends at prime time. That's a little over 47 cents a hole.
- The area's two big driving ranges — Rob Roy and Arlington Park — are asking $2 and $1.50, respectively, Rob Roy sells you approximately 60 balls which figures out to a little over 30 cents a shot. At Arlington Park you'll get 45 balls or a little over 33 cents apiece.

Naturally, inflation has taken its toll. Add the increased taxes, salaries and upkeep these area courses have to pay and it's no surprise that the majority of the courses contacted had to raise their greens fees.

What is amazing is three courses kept their 1975 prices — Bartlett Hills CC, Village Green CC and Palatine Hills GC. Of this trio, Palatine Hills — a park district course — is the lowest at $6.50 on weekends. So is Palatine's weekday rate — $5.25.

All the courses offer cheaper rates after certain times on weekends and weekdays. Each should be consulted in that regard. Some even give discounts to senior citizens and youngsters.

If Father's Day or graduation day pose problems for you as far as presents are concerned, here's an idea for the graduate or dad who plays golf. Give the linkster the "Golf Card."

This credit card gives the recipient a mini-membership at more than 200 private country club and resort golf courses around the country, in Mexico and the Bahamas.

The holder is entitled to two complimentary rounds of golf a year (good for 12 months from date of purchase) at each and every course honoring the card. Its cost — $35 (or $55 for two in the same family).

According to the release, you can receive instant membership by calling 800-453-4260.

If you love golf but can't afford to play much anymore, you'll get your money's worth (it's free!) next Wednesday.

The public is invited to a clinic and nine-hole exhibition by former golfing great Patty Berg at Itasca Country Club. The event will begin at noon.

Berg was one of the first women superstar golfers. She helped found the women's pro tour with Babe Didrikson.

There's another exhibition that will take place Friday. The public's free to come and have a few laughs at the expense of the players.

It's the second annual Chicago Area Golf Writers Assn. Tournament at Old Orchard Country Club.

But if you happen to be in the area, don't watch them too closely. You might learn some bad habits.

Orta's hit in 11th inning gives White Sox 1-0 win

by BOB GALLAS

A bases-loaded single by Jorge Orta with one out in the eleventh inning gave the White Sox a 1-0 win over the Texas Rangers at Comiskey Park Wednesday night.

Sox manager Paul Richards, out for the past two games with the flu, was back at the ballpark but not in uniform.

"I TV'd this one," Richards explained, referring to his directions that went to the Sox bench via telephone while he watched the game on TV in the clubhouse.

"I don't know anyone else I'd rather have up there than Jorge in that situation," Richards said. The Sox manager said he would continue calling the shots from the clubhouse until he was fully recovered.

The run broke a string of 24 consecutive scoreless innings by Rangers' pitcher, 23-year-old Jim Umbarger, who was brilliant through the first 10 innings, giving up just two hits. The Minnesota Twins wanted Umbarger desperately in the trade that sent Twins' Bert Blyleven and Danny Thompson to the Rangers. Umbarger showed just why Texas was intent on keeping him around.

"That boy's a good pitcher, but we finally just wore him out," said Richards of the 6-foot-6 lefthander, Umbarger, who didn't allow a hit until Ralph Garr's two-out single in the sixth.

Equally brilliant was the Sox starting pitcher Bart Johnson, who was bombed the last time out when he lasted only 1-1/3 innings at Oakland. Johnson, like many of the Sox players, benefited from the Richards school of baseball knowledge.

Richards worked with Johnson's motion over the weekend and the results were apparent Wednesday. "He had a lot more motion and animation out there tonight," Richards said.

Johnson worked the first nine innings, giving up only three scattered hits, striking out six and walking only one. Dave Hamilton came on to pitch the tenth and eleventh innings to get the win for the Sox.

Catcher Jim Essian, who is hitting over .400 in limited duty this year, doubled to open the Sox eleventh and keyed the game-winning rally.

No word yet on the Sox protest over Tuesday's 6-5, 16-inning loss to Texas. The Sox contend the Rangers used an ineligible player in starting pitcher Bill Singer who was on the mound when it was announced in Minneapolis that he had been traded to the Twins along with three others for Blyleven and Thompson. American League president Lee MacPhail, who is in Chicago, is expected to rule on the matter in the next few days.

SOX SHORTS: The White Sox have recalled outfielders Alan Bannister and Nyls Nyman from their Des Moines farm club . . . To make room for the pair, the Sox sent down Sam Ewing and Hugh Yancy to Des Moines.

Bonham goes the distance as Cubs defeat Mets 5-3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manny Trillo's two-run single highlighted a four-run fifth inning Wednesday night which carried the Chicago Cubs to a 5-3 triumph over the New York Mets behind the route-going pitching of Bill Bonham.

Rick Monday, who had three hits, started the Cubs' fifth inning with a single and reached third on a wild pickoff throw by losing pitcher Craig Swan. Swan then hit Jose Cardenal with a pitch and Bill Madlock singled to score Monday.

Larry Biittner then blooped a single, loading the bases and Trillo followed with his two-run hit which put the Cubs ahead, 3-2. Joe Wallis' infield out scored the final run of the inning.

The Cubs added a run in the sixth on a bunt single by Monday and successive base hits by Cardenal and Dave Rosello, who had replaced Madlock in the fifth after the Cubs' third baseman suffered stretched muscles in his shoulder during a home plate collision with Mets' catcher Ron Hodges.

Bonham, boosting his record to 4-2, scattered nine hits in going the distance for the first time this year.

The Mets scored an unearned run in the first inning, added a run in the second on a sacrifice fly by Del Unser and pushed across their final run in the fifth on singles by Wayne Garrett, Ed Kranepool and Joe Torre.

Suns tie series; back to Boston

PHOENIX —The surprising Phoenix Suns, beating Boston at its own muscle game under the boards, got eight final-quarter points from Alvan Adams while tightening their defense to beat the Celtics 109-107 Wednesday night and tie the NBA's championship series at two games apiece.

The underdog Suns, making free throws at a near record pace, took a seven-point lead into the final quarter at 87-80 and they never gave it up as rookie of the year Adams, held to 12 points in the first three quarters, kept them on top early. Then Gar Heard, leading scorer Paul Westphal and Ricky Sobers took over as Phoenix played out the clock and JoJo White missed Boston's last shot to save the victory.

Westphal, who came to the Suns from the Celtics before the start of the season, finished with 28 points, nine assists and three steals while Adams had 20 points, Heard 19 and Sobers 14. Heard also was the leading rebounder with 15.

White led Boston with 25 points while Dave Cowens, playing most of the final period with five fouls, had 22 and Paul Silas 18.

Officials Don Murphy and Manny Sokol seemingly called every infraction in the first half with the Suns cashing in on 26 of 28 free throw attempts for a 60-57 lead. They made an additional nine points from the free throw line in the third quarter and that's what enabled them to stay in front.

Cowens made a basket with 1:50 to go to put Boston within two but Sobers got it back 23 seconds later for a four-point lead. White scored again for Boston as did Cowens with Heard canning one between the two Boston stars for what proved to be the winning points.

The best-of-seven series now shifts to Boston for the fifth game Friday with the sixth game to be played in Phoenix on Sunday. If a seventh game is needed, it will be played in Boston.

Bulls name personnel director

Jerry Krause, 37, a veteran of 14 years in National Basketball Association front offices, chiefly as a scout, Wednesday was named director of player personnel of the Chicago Bulls.

"I can negotiate all contracts, set up all trades and handle all the signings except that in the case of huge dollars, I will have to go to the executive board," Krause said.

He applied for the job, he said, after Dick Motta, who had combined the job of coach and director of player personnel, left to become coach of the Washington Bullets.

Krause, who resigned as a scout for the Philadelphia 76ers to take the Bulls' job, worked for the Bulls as a scout from 1968 through 1971 and later was a scout for the Phoenix Suns.

He said selection of a new coach would be deferred until after the June 8 draft of college players and that he would "recommend" two or three coaches to the executive board before the final choice.

"I'm going to try to build an aggressive, quick basketball team that will pressure people," he said. "Whoever we hire as coach is going to coach pressure defense.

"I definitely can resist coaching the coach. I will not step in the locker room. That's the province of the coach and players.

"I think there are tradeable assets on the Bulls, but the only way you find out what they're worth is finding out what other people will give you for them."

He believed it would take "two or three good drafts" to rebuild the Bulls, who had the worst record in the NBA this year, unless the team, which has the No. 2 and No. 18 picks in the draft this year, can pick up a superstar or two.

"You have to build by steps," he said, "but I feel there are some strong points on the team."

Hearing set in Morales case

Four men Wednesday were ordered to a June 17 hearing on disorderly conduct charges stemming from an early Sunday fracas in which Chicago Cub outfielder Jerry Morales was injured.

Morales has remained silent about the affair, although he has not started in the Cub lineup since the incident.

Police said that Morales and an off-duty Chicago policeman, Patrolman Frank Ramirez, 36, had visited a taco stand on the northwest side and four young men had been following their car. They caught up with the two outside Morales' apartment building.

Morales suffered a cut on the head, and both he and Ramirez suffered back injuries.

Police were summoned by the doorman at Morales' apartment building. The four alleged that the car in which the two victims were driving had "cut them off" in traffic.

Woman bowler rolls 300–twice

Betty Morris of Stockton, Calif., set a record Wednesday by bowling a pair of 300 games in the first round of the finals of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America U. S. Open tournament.

Morris, 28, opened the first round of match play with a 300 game and then repeated it on her sixth and final game of the afternoon series.

Her total was the best for any six-game series bowled by a woman. Her other scores in the series were 254, 245, 227 and 238, a total of 1,564.

"The second 300 was better than the first," Morris said. "In the first one I pulled my 10th ball and was lucky to get a strike. That gave me the lift I needed to get the next two strikes."

Bev Ortner of Tucson, Ariz., bowled a perfect game Tuesday. Both bowlers have rolled three 300's in their careers, tying Sylvia Wene Martin for the most career 300's by a woman bowler.

Brewers acquire Von Joshua

The Milwaukee Brewers Wednesday night announced the acquisition of outfielder Von Joshua from the San Francisco Giants in exchange for a player to be named later.

The 28-year old Joshua, who hit .318 last year, has batted only .263 through May 31 of this season.

Dick Hackett of the Brewers said the team had traded "a player to be named later" for Joshua, who was upset after having been replaced in the Giants' starting lineup by rookie Larry Herndon.

Joshua is a seven-year major leaguer who hits more for average than for power.

He is expected to report to the Brewers as soon as possible.

GIRLS
Jeans 2, Sun Devils 0

Devils Helene May, Sansi Padget, and Tracy Inwood all played well, but goals by Jeans Kathy Delanty and Nancy Krauter, field play by Jenny Brennan, and a shutout performance by Diane Sharapata and Kathy Lonergan, tied up the win for the Levis.

Soccer Boppers 1, Streakers 0

The Boppers' scorer was Michelle Boudreau, Karen Barrett made the assist. Mary Margaret O'Brien earned the shutout, and Laura Carlile, Kelly Murphy, and Mary Beth Keane earned Coach Randall's fine defense commendation.

Jolly Green Giants 2, Sun Devils 0

A second win for the Giants, (despite a good game by Devils Stephanie Ward, Karen Sohn, Laura Csoka, and Tracy Inwood), on goals by Cindy Curylo and Mary Maloney, a shutout by Annette Jackowski, and super play by Lynn and Cindy Schaffnit, Jeanine John, Debbie Hughes and Tracey Carlson.

Soccer Boppers 2, Jeans 1

A tight game all the way; the Boppers winning on goals by Michelle Boudreau and Joyce Randall, assists from Cathy Molohon and Mary Beth Barrett, and good defense by Maureen O'Brien, Kelly Murphy and Debbie Logan. The Jeans had one goal by Nancy Krauter and good field play from Nancy Repplinger, Kathy Delanty and the whole team.

Streakers 4, Sun Devils 0

A big win for the Streakers, (although Devils Lynn Wallace, Mary English and Kim Rouse did their best to slow them down), on goals by Cathy Maher, Sue Ullmer, Maribeth Lydon and Sally Eme, and strong defense by Stephanie Olsen, Kelly Glass, Christine Caviolo and Laurie Love.

INTERMEDIATES
Flaming Tigers 0, Golden Eagles 0

A goalies' struggle with the Tiger net tender, Vanessa Hadley, saving a PK, and Eagle Maria Breen fighting successfully to keep her nets clear.

Royal Runners 6, Skylarks 0

The Runners made it look easy on a hat trick by Dawn Dzikonski, a double by Karen Groth, a single by Christy Eme, solid playing by Nancy Piazza and Stephanie Strzalka, and a shutout for goalies Piazza and Eme.

Green Machine 2, Red Barons 1

The Reds worked hard as Kelly Lyng scored (on an assist by Peg Maguire) and Heidi Sunderlin and Lori Kast played very well on defense during the first half; but the Machine rolled into the win on goals by Cheryl Crimm and Debbie Wenn (assisted by Susie McGregor) and good defense by Justine Zamback, Lori Williams and Jodi Hummel.

SENIORS
76ers 3, Grasshoppers 3

The first tie at Virginia Lake resulted from 76ers goals by Elizabeth Simons, Dana Howard and Lori Solimene (assisted by Debbie Mollerj), fine defensive play by Colleen Francis, Diane Pfister and goalie Shawn Rojas; and Grasshopper goals by Lauree Small (2) and Nancy Melberg, and good defense by Gail Monaco, Jo Barrett and Patty Melberg.

Bumblebees 5, Orange Blossoms 1

Julie Brehm was the lone Blossom scorer and an outstanding position player as was Holly Sorem, but the weather suited the Bees best as Jennifer Wilson, Sue Chernesky, Mary Jo Incavo, Theresa Schnetz and Michelle Repplinger scored and Julie Buist played an admirable defense.

Bumblebees 4, 76ers 3

Bumblebee goals by Sue Chernesky (2), Theresa Schnetz and Nancy White. 76ers tallies by Dana Howard, Laura Francis and Lori Solimene.

Grasshoppers 1, Golden Eagles 0

Holly Meyer made the Grasshopper goal and Lorrie Norys and Cindy Kist earned the shutout. Mary Jo Skangel was the star Eagle at right fullback.

BOYS
Dolphins 3, Seals 1

The Seals had a single tally by Richk ens and good defensive play by Matt Hinds, but it was Dolphin weather for a great team effort, as Dave Walocha, Derek Ruzbasan and Brian Delanty scored: Ruzbasan, Dale Suslick, and Louis Schager assisted: Schager, Suslick and Danny Jacobsen were cited by Coach Lopresti for super defense.

Sting Rays 3, Gators 2

Only 10 Rays were on the pitch, but excellent team play and goals by Kurt Tierney (2) and Greg Kist brought them the win. The Gators didn't give up easily, however, as Michael Thomaszeck scored twice and was cited for good play as were teammates Mark Strazzanti and John Walz.

Barracudas 4, Marlins 2

Mueller's Marlins scored twice (Chris Kelly and Mike Williams) and boasted two improved players, Scott Mueller and Matt Dammes. The Hickey/Williams Barracudas ultimately were the ones in the winners column on a hat trick by Mark Biebel, a single by Randy Moore, and good effort by Mike Lange, Chris Deutschmann and Tim Canning.

Seals 2, Sharks 2

The Sharks led 2-0 on goals by Matt May and Brian Schiller, great play by Tim MacDonald, Mike Zarob, and first half goalie Schiller; and scoring efforts by May. But the fighting Seals came from behind to tie the game on goals by Rick Berens and fine defense by Steve Bracci, Matt Canan and Steve Christensen.

Dolphins 5, Barracudas 1

There were many goals for the Dolphins — two by Matt Lopresti, one each by Dale Suslick, Brian Delanty and Louis Schager — and fine assists — by Suslick, Dave Walocha and Brian Delanty — plus particularly good dribbling by Walocha and passing by Larry Logan and Mike Jackowski. The 'Cuda tally was knocked in by Randy Moore from a pass by Tim Canning.

Gators 4, Sting Rays 1

Two terrific team efforts; John Walz (2), Tom McGuire and Mark Strazzanti scored for the Gators, Greg Kist for the Sting Ray and Ray Kurt Tierney earned an excellent play citation from Coach Kist.

Seals 5, Marlins 1

Rick Berens with a hat trick and Todd Janney with a double easily kept the Seals on top because Randy DeBlock and Jerry Carkuk were doing such a fine job defending the home net. But Marlin Mike Williams did get past them once with the help of Chris Kelly, and Vince Kramer was noted as the most improved player of the team.

Wildcats 3, Panthers 2

Good passing and team play, a hat trick by Mike Ahern and good goal tending by Jim Biondi brought the Cats into the winners column for the first time this season. Panther scorers were Dan Schuman and Scott Padgett (both on assists by Bob LeFevre). Mike Swanson, Christ Strzalka, Joe Burke and Mike Stevens were commended for outstanding effort.

Cheetahs 5, Alley Cats 2

The Cheetahs played one of their best games ever, using good passing between the offense and defense, four goals by Mike Polizzi and one by Todd Bleecker. The Cats played well, but it was not their day, as they had to settle for only two tallies, scored by Larry Kast and Bruce Peterson.

Lions 4, Pumas 4

A hard fought game by both teams edged the Lions onto the winners side on two goals by Jamie Trzeciak and one each by Kevin Dorhout and Adam Helander. Puma tallies were by Dan Hogan and Sean Malloy.

Cougars 3, Tigers 3

A seesaw game with the Cougars holding the early lead (with some fine forward passing and great saves by goalie Mike Hibner) on goals by Craig Hartman (assisted by Gabor Mark), Joe O'Keefe (assisted by John Kleiser), and Mark from a corner kick. The Tigers tied it up, fell behind, and then tied it up again using the undisputed defense talents of Mike Jennings and Phil Johns, and the scoring power of Steve Pejchl, Tim Updike and Mike Vastine (assisted by Pejchl).

Jaguars 5, Bobcats 2

Mark Anderson scored a big four for the Jaguars, Jimmy Bock made one, and also a perfect corner kick that gave Anderson a chance to head in one of his; center half Ken Magee was cited for good hustle. The aggressive Bobcats kept the game close until late in the second half on goals by Paul Haddock (on assists by Darryl Benson and Dan Moller) and good field play by Dan Raby and Roddy Kincaid and fine net tending by Doug Hipwell.

INTERMEDIATES
Cardinals 3, Eagles 1

The Cards soared again with Greg Gildea, Tom Mueller and Matt McElman scoring, Sean Stevens and Tom Seeley flying on offense, and Gildea on defense. The Eagle score was by David Eck, and Carl Privett and John Yarwood were cited for defense.

Swifts 4, Hawks 1

The Hawks played a good game, but could only score the one goal by Tom Chernesky (assisted by Chris Benson), while the Swifts booted in a steady supply — by David Graveline, Mike Hogan, Jeff Koehl and Stanley Parker — and starred Pat Murphy, Hogan and Graveline.

Orioles 6, Flickers 2

A good game by all the Orioles resulted in six goals; a hat trick by Michael Deutschmann and one each by Tom Schaffer, Steve Maloaf and Kevin Parsons. Flicker goals were by Scott Fisher and George Kelly.

Roadrunners 5, Blue Jays 4

The Jays made a fantastic team effort, but still suffered their first loss of the season. Their tallies were by Brad Burgess, Brian Tow, Mike Diamond and Ted Brunk. The winning Runners had Bill Murphy (3), John Pejchl and Chris Abbick to score, Gary Szydlo and Jon Oursler (2) to assist; excellent play by Rich Drozd, winging by Szydlo, and playing and heading by Oursler.

Turkeys 7, Blue Jays 2

The Turkeys won with hat tricks by Rick Ruzbasan and Ron Reiter, a single by Kevin Ruzbasan, an assist by Ron Ferlaak and some good work by Brennan Gourdie and Jeff Herndon. Steve Stolarz led a good Jay effort, which resulted in goals by Rich O'Keefe and Ted Brunk, and an assist by Brad Burgess.

Swifts 7, Cardinals 2

It was a good game for Swifts David Graveline and Mike Hogan who scored four and three respectively, and fullbacks Jeff Simons, Drew Sisco, and Jeff Magnussen who kept the Cards away. Red goals were by Tom Seeley and Sean Stevens. Mark Endicott made an assist and played a good game as did Tom Mueller.

Hawks 5, Flickers 4

In a well-played game, the Hawks won on two goals and an assist by Jim Martin, Ken Mueller, and Chris Benon, two assists by Tom Chernesky, and one by Don Miller. Flicker tallies were by Tom Sullivan (2), George Kelly, and David Christensen.

Condors 4, Eagles 2

The Condors put it all together, but a lot of the credit for their first win goes to goalie Sean Delanty and defenseman Tim McCarthy, and, of course, to scorers Jim Belsterling (2; one assisted by Rich Jackowski), Ken Hancock (assisted by Belsterling) and Jim Francis (assisted by Hancock). The Eagle goals were by David Eck and Kevin Barrett, and their star defensemen were David Hardy, Daryl Warren, and John Yarwood.

Orioles 3, Roadrunners 3

Memorial Day's only tie happened as the Orioles made a good team effort, and Bob Burns, Erik BoHansen, and Tom Cole scored. On the Runner side, John Pejchl scored two and Bill Murphy one and an assist; Brett Hartman made an assist, Gary Szydlo did well at wing and Paul Egger at fullback, and Jon Oursler, Rich Drozd and Murphy were commended by Coach Abbick for excellent play.

SENIORS
Bears 8, Gazelles 0

Bear goals by Charlie Marsland (2), Marty Kurtz, Jim Rennie, Duane Carlile, Howard Jensen, Mark McLean, and Terry Bleecker. Joe Irons earned the shutout.

Impalas 5, Beavers 1

The Impalas easily held their lead in the senior division on three goals by Dave Castillo (two assisted by Dave Moller and one by Bob Wegener), two by Moller (assisted by Castillo and Wegener), and fine play by Evan Privett, Mike Crouse, Bill Scott and Bill Dahlborn. Tom Seiter scored the Beaver goal, Mike Eme was their defensive star and Chris Braun did his usual fine work on the field.

Wolves 2, Mustangs 2

Rick Puls led the Wolf scoring with a goal and an assist, followed by Jeff Moore with a goal and Kevin Stilwell with an assist. Greg Masucci, Blake Stones, Bob Falkenberg, Puls and goalie Steve Landeene earned Coach Schlenker's commendation. All the Mustangs, and especially Mike Grensing in goal, played a good hard game, and Jeff Inwood and Jim Caviolo scored.

Rams 3, Beavers 1

Excellent backfield play by Dave McDonald and a goal by Chris Braun helped the Beavers quite a bit, but the Rams forged ahead on goals by Keith LaMasse, John Jennings, and Jay Babler, and defensive play by Greg Dorhout and Mike Dammes.

Beavers 5, Gazelles 1

Beaver Rich McElman played a strong mid-field, Dave McDonald was a solid fullback, injured Elias Koutas looked confident in the net, Tom Seiter scored a hat trick, and Chris Bruan and Ross Robertson each had singles. Jim Johnson booted in the Gazelle tally.

Impalas 2, Bears 1

Goalie Joe Irons and fullback Jeff Seiter saved the Bears time after time, but the single tally by Duane Carlile was not enough to defeat the hard hitting Impalas, their scorers Dave Castillo and Andy Deutschmann, assitors Dave Moller and Scott Guettinger, or their top fullback players, Rob Parenzan and Bill Dahlborn.

Wolves 1, Mustangs 0

Good playing by two tough teams kept the match in contention all the way. But the Wolves' single goal (by Rick Puls on an assist by Joel Brown), Blake Stones' usual outstanding defense, and shutout net tending by Chris Olssen held the narrow edge of victory.

TRAVELING TEAMS
Celtic Green 2, Glen Ellyn 1

Celtic goals by Kevin Boudreau and Bob Curylo, assists by Steve Norys and John Griffin, and a special commendation for goalie Todd Privett.

Celtic White 1, Buffalo Grove 3

Celtic goal by Tom Meyer on an assist by Paul Cornwell.

Suburban Sport Celtic 10, Vikings 0

Three goals each by Bobby Wegener and Andy Deutschmann and two goals each by Charlie Marsland and Jim Rennie. Shutout to Eric Hartman.

Bison, Cougars, Cardinals close season with wins

Sophomore righty Mike Marshall tossed a two-hitter for his sixth win of the season and drove in a pair of runs as Buffalo Grove defeated Hersey, 6-2, to claim second place in the North division of the MSL.

The victory gave the Bison a 13-4 record, one game better than Hersey's 12-5. Arlington clinched first place last week with a win over Hersey.

Marshall allowed a two-run homer in the first by Huskie first baseman Tom Barnard and a harmless single in the second by Bobby Hart. Then the hard-throwing Bison hurler cut down the opposition without a hit for the final five frames, fanning six in the process.

Hersey righthander Dan Stoltz held Buffalo Grove scoreless until the fourth. Tim Prokof was hit by a pitch leading off and, after two out, Bill Donato singled and the next batter walked. Prokof scored on a wild pitch.

In the fifth, Bison shortstop Mike Ledna opened with a walk and came in with the tying run on Marshall's double. Prokof's single sent Marshall to third, but a wild relay throw let the go-ahead run score and moved Prokof to third. Steve Chobanian promptly delivered an RBI single and it was 4-2.

B. Grove scored twice more in the sixth on singles by Dave Martin and Al Cymbal, a bases-loaded walk to Marshall, and a wild pitch.

CONANT STOPS MUSTANGS

Junior righthander Rob Totten went the distance and contributed an RBI single as Conant beat South-division champion Rolling Meadows, 7-4, Wednesday, as both teams wrapped up the regular-season schedule.

Totten, Dan Neswold, and Jeff Johnson drew walks to load the bases in the first inning against Mustang starter Steve Stiert, and Scott Schafer followed with a two-run single to give the Cougars a quick 2-0 lead.

But Meadows cut the lead in half in the third on a triple by Jim Broderick and a sacrifice fly off the bat of Paul Marsillo. The Mustangs took the lead with a two-run rally in the fourth on a single by Bill Bilsley, a double by Dave Bell and a balk.

Two walks and a hit batsman gave Conant a bases-loaded opportunity in the bottom of the fourth and the Cougars capitalized. Dan Mullin was hit by another Mustang delivery to force in tht tying run and Neswold walked to push across the go-ahead marker.

Totten and Johnson smashed RBI base hits in the Cougars' three-run sixth.

KENNEDY ONE-HITS FREMD

Arlington closed out their regular conference campaign in much the same way they commenced it Wednesday, blanking Fremd 6-0 on the one-hit pitching of Craig Kennedy.

The Cardinals put together a four-run rally in the fourth to salt away their 15th win in 17 loop games this spring. Their first MSL contest was a 7-0 no-hit triumph over Wheeling.

Kennedy did not walk a man and whiffed six in raising his log to 3-1. The one hit off him was a line double by Brian Fletcher in the fifth.

Jim Vogts walked with the bases jammed to push across the first, and decisive Redbird run. John Vukovich doubled in another run and Mike Myerick singled in the two final Card tallies in the sixth.

Arlington Post to hold tryouts for legion team

The Arlington Heights Legion Post, sponsored by Des Plaines, will hold tryouts Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Recreation Park, according to Manager Lloyd Meyer.

Each day's tryout will begin at 4 p.m.

Arlington opens its season on Sunday against a Cincinnati team. The 1 p.m. game will be at Triton Junior College.

MSL relay team is named

Two runners from Palatine High School, one from Fremd and another from Elk Grove will represent the Mid-Suburban League track teams in the Chicagoland Mile Relay, to be held as a special feature of the International Prep Invitational Track Meet June 12 at Northwestern's Dyche Stadium.

The Pirate runners are Rich Falbo and Kirk Morris, two of the members of Palatine's MSL-champion mile relay team. Morris was also the league's indoor 440 winner and Falbo was district champ in the 330-yard low hurdles.

Fremd's Dan Mosby and Elk Grove's Dave King, both of them outstanding low hurdlers in their own right, round out the MSL contingent.

Falbo, Morris, Mosby and King are seniors. A fifth senior, John Fabbrini of Elk Grove, will serve as alternate. Only seniors are eligible to run in the meet, which is sponsored by the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Chicago.

Two-time state 880 champion Steve Schellenberger of Forest View will be given the opportunity to run in the special relay on the basis of his :48.8 clocking in the 440 earlier in the year. Schellenberger is already entered in the IPI 880-yard run.

The candidates for the MSL's entry in the Chicagoland Mile Relay were selected in a runoff at Hoffman Estates High School on Tuesday.

Cage tickets on sale June 7

The United States Olympic basketball team will play an exhibition game on June 24 at Prospect High School, and tickets will go on sale June 7 in the main lobby of the Mount Prospect State Bank.

Tickets will be $6 each, and they will be limited to two per person. Because the Prospect fieldhouse seats only 3,500 spectators, it is advised to purchase tickets before the game.

Mount Prospect State Bank is located at 111 E. Busse Ave., Mount Prospect.

The exhibition game will begin at 8 p.m. June 24 and will match the United States team with an all-star aggregation assembled by Ray Meyer and Gene Sullivan of DePaul University. Bob Love of the Chicago Bulls already has indicated he will play for the all-stars.

The game is co-sponsored by the Mount Prospect State Bank and Prospect Boosters Club.

Arlington to hold gym classes

Arlington High School will hold registrations for age group gymnastics classes Thursday, June 3 and Wednesday, June 9 at 4 p.m.

The classes will begin June 21 and continue every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday until August 13.

Registration will be held in the foyer of Grace Gymnasium at Arlington High School.

Course testifies in bribery trial

4 who got gifts not in election bid

Four state senators who got cash "campaign contributions" from Sen. Kenneth Course in 1972 were nxt seeking reelection to the legislature, Course conceded under government questioning Wednesday.

Course, a Chicago Democrat, is the first defendant to take the stand in the federal bribery trial of six past and present lawmakers and two others accused of taking part in a $30,000 bribery scheme beneficial to the concrete industry.

Course testified Tuesday he passed out $4,300 in cash in plain envelopes to 16 Democratic senators in 1972, telling them they were "campaign contributions." He said the money came from the ready-mix concrete industry.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Dan Webb, however, established during cross-examination Wednesday that four of the senators — Edward Nihill, Bernard Neistein, Theodore Swinarski and Thad L. Kusibab, all from Chicago — got cash from Course even though they were not seeking reelection in 1972.

Course, who admitted he never gave or got cash campaign contributions in plain envelopes prior to 1972, said even lawmakers not running for office need money and accept campaign donations.

"These men would have campaign expenses, debts, even if they're not running for reelection," Course said.

Course said Neistein and Swinarski might have needed money in their races for Chicago ward committeemen posts. He said he is no longer certain whether he described the money as "campaign contributions" or merely called it "money from the trucking industry so they'd know it wasn't bribes."

The government says Course received $5,000 from Peter V. Pappas, a legislative liaison for the secretary of state accused of collecting $30,000 from the ready-mix cement industry for distribution to lawmakers to insure passage of a bill allowing heavier cement trucks on the highways.

Course said Nihill, Neistein and Swinarski got $200 each and Kusibab $400.

'Malpractice ruling good'

The president of the American Medical Assn. said Wednesday a verdict finding a woman and her lawyers who filed a malpractice suit guilty of on misconduct should "discourage the filing of frivolous, nonmeritorius cases" against doctors.

Dr. Max H. Parrott, said the finding by a Cook County Circuit Court jury "serves notice that doctors intend to fight back" against legal attacks which have "no merit either in law or in medicine."

The jury found Mrs. Harriet Nathan; her lawyer-husband, Gilbert, and her lawyers guilty of willful and wanton misconduct in filing a $250,000 malpractice suit against Dr. Leonard Berlin of Skokie Valley Community Hostal.

The jury awarded Berlin a radiologist in suburban Skokie, $8,000 in damages.

The original suit stemmed from a tennis injury suffered by Mrs. Nathan. After treatment Mrs. Nathan sued Berlin for not finding a small fracture in the little finger of her right hand.

County hospital to close?

Cook County Hospital may be shut down in two weeks because it will not have enough money to meet its biweekly $4 million payroll June 16, Dr. Marshall Falk said Wednesday.

Falk, dean of the Chicago Medical School and one of five members of the Cook County Health and Hospitals Governing Commission, said if the hospital cannot meet its payroll, it would have to close.

Falk told a meeting of the commission that the First National Bank of Chicago, which has already loaned the commission $15 million, refused Tuesday to lend an additional $10 million.

Archibald Mirrielees, budget manager for the governing commission, said First National "is disinclined to increase our credit limit . . . because it does not want to assume the entire risk of this state-imposed burden."

In apartment complexes

Manager makes, breaks owner profit

by LYNN ASINOF

He's the guy who hears about it when your roof leaks, when the hot water isn't hot or when the rents go up. He knows all about furnaces which don't heat and air conditioners which don't cool.

A property manager is part salesman, bookkeeper purchasing agent and peace keeper. He's a professional who is a jack-of-all-trades.

"The property management business is the toughest business in real estate," said William D. Sally, vice president and general manager of Baird & Warner's property management division.

Sally said it is increasingly difficult for apartment owners to make a profit on their buildings because of skyrocketing costs and inflation. He claims professional management can make a difference.

IN THE OLD DAYS, apartment buildings were managed by their owners, Sally said. Today about 15 per cent of Chicago's 1.1 million rental units are professionally managed.

Browning Yelvington, vice president of management for American Invs-Co., said increased costs are largely responsible for a growning professionalism in property management.

"The day of the ma and pa operators is fading out," Yelvington said, noting that budgeting and other procedures are becoming more necessary. "You can't just operate by the seat of your pants anymore. The line is so thin on a break even basis."

Because of these problems, Sally said property management is an innovative business. "Management must be aggressive to keep up with what is happening in our business," he said.

TAKE THE ENERGY crisis. The increased cost of utilities is forcing management companies to take a long hard look at the use of both gas and electricity.

Most of the management firms are starting to install automatic controls to turn off the heat and the lights when not needed. Many are dropping the temperature of the hot water and raising the temperature on the air conditioning. Lights are becoming a bit dimmer and some buildings are having their heating systems overhauled.

"We're looking at insulation, automatic controls, better fuel consumption and seminars with our janitors. It's just a matter of being vigilant."

Sally said many management firms would like to shift the utility burden onto the tenants. "The big thing today is to find ways for the tenant to pick up the electric costs," he said, noting many of the newer buildings have individual thermostats and meters for each unit.

WHEN MONEY GETS TIGHT, Sally said managers can cut back by reducing the decorating, increasing the laundry machine prices or charging for special maintenance services.

Bulk purchasing also provides a savings under professional management. Sally said managers can negotiate some substantial discounts in light bulb purchases, snow plowing and other areas if they can provide a steady business.

"The management companies do have a difficult time making money if you give the kind of service that is really needed," Yelvington said. But making money isn't impossible with good management.

For example, American Invs-Co recently took over Countryside, a 720-unit development in Palatine. The project also includes condominiums and a shopping center.

BEFORE AMERICAN INVS-CO took over, there was about 80 per cent occupancy of the project, people were living on expired leases and many people were behind on their rent. One couple had gone for six months without paying rent, and the previous management hadn't said a word.

"The first thing we did was find out who was there," Yelvington said. He said the unoccupied units were then put in condition to be shown, and a new leasing team was sent in. The property is now 99 per cent occupied and rent collection is running between 98 and 99 per cent.

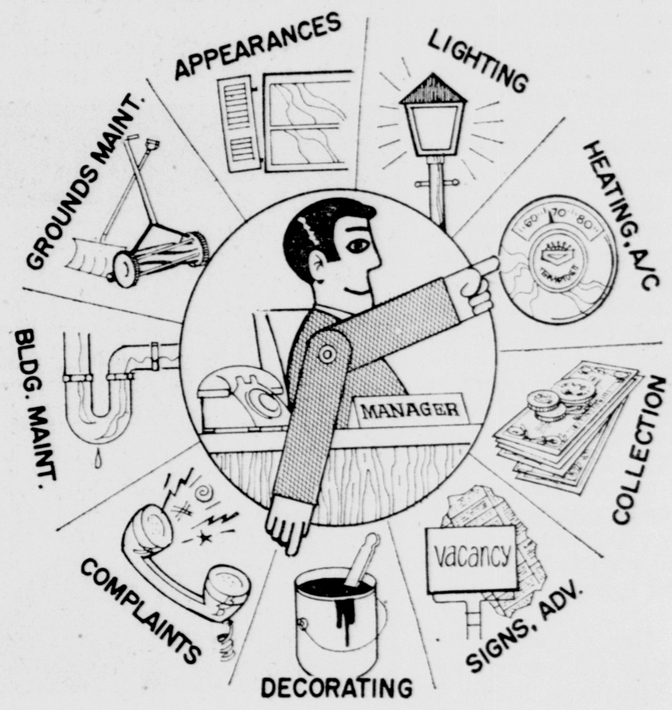
"Countryside is a beautiful property," Yelvington said, praising both the construction and the size of the apartments. "The developer did everything right in putting the property together."

The difference in the success of the project was the management.

Jared Shlaes, real estate counselor with Shlaes and Co., said management is the major factor in the success of any project.

"YOU CAN GET PEOPLE in there initially with a good advertising campaign, but you don't keep them without good management," he said.

The cost of property management varies, but in most cases is based on a percentage of gross receipts. Sally said in the city the percentage figure is between 7 and 9 per cent while in the suburbs the fee is either 6 per cent or a negotiated net fee.



In the larger complexes, there usually is a resident manager who gets both a rent-free apartment and a salary. "You just have to have someone on site available 24 hours a day," Yelvington said.

Most of the property managers estimated a complex between 75 and 125 units can afford the cost of a resident manager. They said buildings of 10 or more units can afford a professional manager.

TENANTS LOSE a certain amount of flexibility with professional management. Once rules are set, they apply to everyone. No pets means no pets. Rent increases aren't negotiable.

The property managers, however, said things are a bit more flexible in the suburbs than the city because the vacancy rate is higher in the suburbs.

"It operates looser administratively because our suburbs have constantly had some vacancies for the past six years," Sally said. He estimated the city vacancy rate at 3 per cent and the suburban vacancy rate at 7 to 10 per cent.

"You'll take a St. Bernard in if you're looking for a tenant whereas you won't let a poodle in if you're not," he said.

Have property appraised before selling: Realtor

If you are planning to sell your home this year, Lowell J. Martin, president of Martin & Marbry Realtors, says you first should have your home appraised or evaluated.

"We're in an economy that is moving upwards, with values ever-increasing," Martin said. "Most people really don't know what their home is worth if they are seriously thinking of selling.

"They don't know what their home can sell for other than what they've heard their neighbor's home sold for or what they think their neighbor received for his home. A lot of times, the price they've heard is not a true selling price for their own home," he said.

BANKS, SAVINGS and loan associations, licensed appraisers and a local realtor can give prospective sellers an evaluation of what their home is worth.

Bank and savings and loan associations will only give an appraisal if the property is sold. They will give a free appraisal only if they have a sales contract, and their appraisal will, most likely be influenced by the property's selling price.

Martin cautions sellers who ask for an appraisal from either of these two institutions not to quote an asking price. Since it is prior to sale, the seller should not lead the appraiser by giving him a figure before he comes up with one.

The most qualified market evalution you can get is from a licensed appraiser or a local Realtor, said Martin. The licensed appraiser does all kinds of appraisals, but the most qualified is the competent realtor who generally restricts his evaluations to a certain area, Martin said. The Realtor has pinpointed the area, has it down to a science, and knows the values. If he specialized in residences, he'll know the single-family market. If he is an apartment building Realtor, he'll know the two-flat, six-flat, 12-flat market.

IF YOU'RE SELLING a single-family home, Martin said you do not need to call a professional appraiser.

"I don't say that to put the professional appraiser down, but, remember, we are constantly evaluating single-family residential properties and apartment buildings. As a matter of fact, we are called upon to do evaluations for courts of law or estates and the evaluations we do are accepted by the courts whether we're licensed as appraisers or not. It's accepted becuuse we know our business."

Martin said that it's an unnecessary expense for a homeowner to get a professional appraiser that will cost $200-$300. He said they can get a current market evaluation at no cost from a local Realtor.

If you're calling in a Realtor, says Martin, choose a moderate to large-size firm that does a volume business in your area. The one-man operation isn't big enough because it doesn't do enough business to make comparisons.

MARTIN POINTS out that a seven-room bilevel in the Northwest suburbs might sell from $58,000 to $63,000. If the seller asks three or four Realtors in for an evaluation, he's likely to get figures in that price range. By averaging out, he can come up with a probable selling price for his home.

There are three basic methods of evaluation:

- Market Analysis based on sales records in that area;
- Capitalization, which is done on apartment property, and
- Replacement factor which is not generally used in residential properties.

"There's no magic way to figure what the top price is," Martin said. "The old saying is that there are three prime factors in evaluating real estate: location, location and location. If the property is badly located, it's not going to bring a price. A home next to commercial or industrial property will sell low and take a long time to move. However, a home on a typical side street or on a cul-de-sac is readily marketable."

The home should not be too close or too far from a school or from shopping. A home across the street from a school may be too noisy for some people, but if the buyers have a small child or a special child who will have trouble getting to school, the location may be just right.

Walking distance is fine for people in the city or close-in suburbs, Martin said, but if you live further out, walking distance isn't a factor since most people in these areas own two cars, or bus transportation is available. In the suburbs, a five-minute drive to a school or shopping won't turn away a buyer. Transportation isn't that big a factor since a short drive to the commuter train is acceptable.

THE REALTOR ARRIVES at a selling price by his evaluation and by comparable sales he's made in that area. "For example," Martin said, "we've sold three seven-room bilevels with good-sized rooms for prices ranging from $64,000 to $66,000, so we can use $65,000 as an average. The location, room sizes, number of bathrooms and bedrooms are factors in evaluating a home. If the home is well-kept inside and outside, it can bring more dollars." Martin said he can tell how fast a home will sell by the activity it creates the first week on the market.

The seller does not have to commit to a Realtor if he asks for an evaluation. Martin said the Realtor is out of line if he insists upon listing a home after he evaluates it.

"To be perfectly frank, if a seller calls us in and tells us he's going to also call two or three more Realtors, we are not shocked and we certainly understand," he said. "We'll still try to obtain the listing, however. But a homeowner shouldn't hestitate calling us or another Realtor if he wants to have his home evaluated."

Shop around, spend less when borrowing

by MERLE E. DOWD

"Many small loan borrowers don't like to borrow from banks," a friendly banker told me. "We figure at least half of those who borrow from finance companies could qualify for bank loans if they would ask." Why, indeed, would a borrower pay two to three times as much for his money from a small loan company as from a bank?

Typically, small loan companies are permitted to charge 3 per cent per month (36 per cent annually) on the first $300. Rates in your state may vary. Numerous reasons are advanced for such loans — desire for privacy, standoffishness of banks' image as perceived by a potential borrower, simplicity in applying for a loan and aggressive promotion by small loan companies.

Money, like other commodities, carries a price tag. It's called interest. Sharp shoppers price the cost of money by shopping at alternative sources. Following is a hierarchy of money sources arrayed according to the price of money:

Passbook loans use your money on deposit as collateral for a loan with a differential interest of 2 or 2½ per cent. That is, if your savings are earning 5 per cent interest, you may borrow for 7 or 7½ per cent interest. But, why borrow your own money and pay differential interest of 2 or 2½ per cent? Passbook borrowers cite three reasons:

1. Discipline. When you owe money to a bank, savings and loan or credit union, you're likely to pay it back. If you take money out of a savings account, you may never repay it. The differential interest amounts to a payment for a lender's discipline.

2. Time deposit. Certificates of deposit (CD's) may earn over 8 per cent effective interest if left undisturbed for six or more years. Drawing out CD's early means paying a penalty and losing the bonus interest. Borrowing against a CD protects the high interest.

3. Interest interruption. Unless interest on savings accounts is paid from day of deposit to day of withdrawal, you could lose considerable earned interest by withdrawing funds before the end of an interest period. Borrowing rather than withdrawing such funds permits interest to continue until credited.

Cash value life insurance loans on long-standing policies may cost 4, 5 or 6 per cent. The interest rate will be specified on your policy along with a cash value schedule. On a participating policy the loan value may also include any dividends left on deposit. Insurance loans are easily obtained by writing directly to company headquarters or a local office of the company.

Negotiable collateral loans may be issued by a lender at a rate one to several points higher than the so-called prime rate. Negotiable collateral includes listed stocks, bonds and mutual fund shares. About two-thirds or three-quarters of the market value of securities will be loaned when a stock power is signed to permit the bank to sell the securitieies if you default on the loan. With a minimum risk the lender can afford to keep the interest price low.

Credit union loans may be available for less than 12 per cent with a lien on a car, boat or other property. If there is no credit union where you work, check your eligibility at some other organization.

Credit card loans or cash advances up to your credit limit usually carry the maximum permitted rate — as high as 18 per cent in many states. Your repayment record and general credit rating will determine whether you can get the loan and how much you will be permitted to borrow. Banks and other lenders may also lend on cars, boats and similar items while retaining a lien on the property.

Small loan or finance companies lend cash at a stepped rate — 36 per cent annually for the first $300, 18 per cent for the next $200, and 12 per cent for amounts above $500 are typical — but rates vary by state. These rates are permitted under strict regulation supposedly to compensate small loan companies for extra risks and collection expenses. but, if you do not need to pay such rates, why not find a lower cost source of money?

Pawnshops offer small amounts of cash on portable collateral at various rates. They are a last resource, to be avoided except in an emergency.

LET'S TALK IT OVER
JERRY BOUSCHARD

There are now over two million American families with a second home . . . a vacation or weekend place they can go to when they so desire. Only about 40 per cent of these people had incomes of over $15,000 per year, according to a recent survey.

It is possible to buy a small, finished cottage on an acre of land in some areas for only a few thousand dollars. Carefully selected, such a second home can be a rewarding investment as well as a source of immediate enjoyment.

Whatever your needs regarding real estate, we are able and willing to give you the benefit of our experience. We'll advise you without any obligation on your part whatever. It will pay you to "Talk It Over" with us while your plans are in the formative stage.

What you should know

Closing the deal on a house

by United Press International

You've found the house.

Now, the all-important mechanics of closing the deal.

Contract, mortgage and settlement, or closing, need not be traumatic, say the housing experts at the American Bankers Assn.

Once you have found the right house and agreed on a price, you and the seller will sign a contract, obligating him to sell and you to purchase at that price, provided a mortgage can be obtained.

Generally you will make a deposit, usually placed in escrow and later applied toward the down payment.

The contract usually is a preprinted form, subject to amendments and additions. Thus, any verbal promises made during the bargaining should be written into the contract. You may want to consult your lawyer before signing anything.

Usually, the contract will specify a time limit within which the purchaser must obtain a mortgage. It should specify that in the event such a commitment is not secured the seller must return the deposit or, if he wishes, extend the time.

The contract should specify which fixtures, appliances and items like carpeting or window air-conditioners are included in the sale and which do not go with the house. The purchaser should be sure the seller specifies anything he will take with him; sellers have been known to dig up plantings and even remove a woodpile or outdoor storage shed.

If you plan to have the house inspected, specify that sale is "subject to the buyer's satisfaction with the report of a qualified inspector." In this way, if the inspector finds deficiencies, the prospective buyer is free to cancel the sale or renegotiate the price.

The contract should establish a settlement date. It also is advisable to state, if the seller is unable to vacate by that date, a specific rent be paid the buyer.

You may have discussed mortgage possibilities in a general way with lenders. Now is the time to make formal application. The bank will require information about family income and assets, outstanding debts, a past credit record, employment history and other factors that might affect your ability to repay.

The bank also will have the house appraised in connection with its determination on whether or not to extend the mortgage commitment.

Settlement, also called the "closing," refers to actual transfer of ownership of the house. Generally those present at the settlement include the buyer, the seller, their respective attorneys and real estate agents and a representative of the lender.

At the closing, two types of payments will be made: the down payment and the settlement costs.

The down payment, of course, is the cash put down by the buyer, less any deposit which has been paid. Settlement costs are paid by both buyer and seller, and relate to transfer of the property or to the mortgage loan.

The association says most banks will be able to estimate closing costs even before making a loan commitment, permitting the buyer to comparison shop. In addition, the buyer, or his lawyer, may be able to negotiate with the seller for distribution of the settlement costs.

Because these costs must be paid in cash, the buyer should know the amounts in advance in order to be prepared. Consult the lender with respect to current federal and state laws in regard to real estate settlement procedures in effect at the time you apply for a loan. If you have a lawyer, he will advise you.

Settlement costs paid by the buyer, the association said, may include such things as loan discount points for appraisal of property; credit report; property survey; mortgage insurance application fee; interest on the loan amount from the closing date until the date of the first mortgage payment; advance payment on mortgage insurance; advance payment on hazard insurance; the charge for title research; the one-time premium for title insurance; attorney's fees; notary fees; government transfer charges; and miscellaneous expenses.

It's with good reason a homeowner will tell you to go to closing with a big checkbook and money to match.

However, not all items will apply in all cases and once you've written all those checks, you are a homeowner.

50% of U.S. banks active in urban development

More than half the nation's banks consider themselves active participants in urban and community economic development, according to a survey made by the American Bankers Assn.

Survey results were generated by a 46 per cent response to a national sample of 2,649 banks of all sizes.

Of those responding to the survey:

• Two-thirds said they participate in organizations whose primary purpose is to study and make recommendations concerning community problems;

• 413 are participating in consortiums of financial institutions to assist local governments in economic development, and 80 more such groupings are being planned;

• 272 have assisted in the development of the two major equity financing organizations — Small Business Investment Companies and Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Companies;

• 280 have special programs for commercial development in declining neighborhoods, and 255 have programs for inner-city industrial park development.

Check for home's safety features

Among a home buyer's many considerations should be the safety features of the house itself.

Nearly twice as many fatal or disabling accidents occur in the home as in industry, according to the National Association of Realtors. And research shows that most of these home accidents could have been prevented.

In the excitement of looking for just the right house, don't forget to check for features that help assure a safe, accident-free life.

The kitchen, often considered the heart of a home, is the site of many home accidents. When you're inspecting that very special part of the house, keep in mind that the floor plan should be designed to prevent traffic through kitchen work areas.

The kitchen should be well ventilated, and should have an exhaust system that discharges to the outside, not into the attic or other unused spaces. The sink, stove and all work surfaces should be well lighted. There should be adequate counter space to provide safe work areas, keep lifting and carrying to a minimum.

Gas ovens, broilers and rotisseries should have pilot lights, and should be provided with an automatic cut-off in case of flame failure. The kitchen range should not be located under a window with hanging curtains.

Another scene of many home accidents is the bathroom. Look for a bathroom floor with a non-slip finish. Bathtubs also should have textured, nearly flat or non-slip surfaces. Tub and shower enclosures should be equipped with sturdy grab bars. Doors should be made of safety glass.

Electric fixtures and switches should be out of reach of the tub or shower enclosure. And all electrical equipment should be grounded. Towel bars, soap dishes and other fixtures should be made of durable materials, firmly installed. A medicine cabinet that can be locked — particularly in a home where small children live — is a definite plus.

Falls are the leading cause of accidental death in the home. To safeguard your family, look for well-lighted stairways with switches at both top and bottom of stairs. Make sure stairs are free of loose floorboards or wobbly railings.

Nosing, carpeting and treads on stairs should be in good repair. Treads should have non-slip surfaces.

Deaths associated with fires take the second largest number of lives in the home. Remember each room should have at least one door to the outside or a window low and large enough to be used as an emergency exit in case of fire. A fixed fire escape, a rope or chain ladder can provide an escape from upper-floor rooms not adjacent to an outside deck or roof.

Bedroom and stairway doors should not be louvered or have other openings. Closet doors and doors between rooms should open from either side. There should be doors at the top or bottom of stairways so that each level of the house can be closed off.

Be sure electrical service is of sufficient capacity to accommodate the expected equipment load. Regardless of whether or not additional large equipment — such as an air conditioner — will be installed, it is wise to have an electrical or local building department check the adequacy of the system. This is especially true if you find evidence of do-it-yourself wiring. Make sure the electrical system is protected against overload, either by circuit breakers or fuses.

Be certain all rooms have enough electrical wall outlets so that "octopus" connections with extension cords will not be necessary. Outlets should be of the three-hole, grounding type or, at least, should be grounded so that appropriate adapters may be used. (Older houses may not meet this criterion.)

All electrical equipment should bear the label of a nationally recognized testing agency such as Underwriters' Laboratories.

Space and water heating equipment bears special consideration from a safety standpoint too. The latter should be provided with a temperature and/or pressure relief valve that can be tested readily by the home owner. Discharge for pressure and temperature relief valves should be piped down near the floor.

Fuel-consuming heating devices should be vented to the outside, either directly or through a chimney, and should have draft hoods or dampers appropriate to the fuel being used.

Make sure heaing equipment is in good condition, is securely mounted in place and has no parts that have rusted through. Be certain, too, that vent pipes are tightly connected to chimneys and are not rusted through or sagging.

Fireplaces should have dampers, and fireplace hearths should extend a minimum of 16 inches into the room. Chimneys should be in good repair at both bottom and top and should not be close to any combustible structure parts.

Don't overlook possible hazards outside the house. Porches, balconies, terraces, copings, window wells and other elevations or depressions should be guarded by railings, closed with bannisters or otherwise protected. Sidewalks and driveway should have a rough finish to prevent slipperiness when wet and should be graded to a slight slope to eliminate puddles of water or spots of ice.

New housing up 41% in first quarter

A 41 per cent gain in the construction of new housing units was recorded in the opening quarter of this year, compared to a year ago, reports the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company.

A total of 277,519 new housing units was started in the January-February-March period, according to the firm, an authority on the construction market. This amount, after adjustment for seasonal variation, reflected a 12 per cent increase over the fourth quarter of 1975.

George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist for F. W. Dodge, said "The recovery of the housing market has come a good way over the past year, but so far that recovery has been confined almost exclusively to single-family homes. At the current rate of 1.4 million units, the housing cycle has gone about as far as it can go until there is some improvement in the still dormant apartment market."

Of the 10 metropolitan areas leading the nation in new dwelling units for the quarter, three were in California. San Diego, with 6,850 units, led the nation, followed by Los Angeles - Long Beach with 6,423 units. The other top areas in ranking order, were: Chicago, 6,413 units; Houston, 6,130 units; Dallas, 5,739 units; Anaheim-Santa Ana-Garden Grove, 5,008 units; Washington, 4,753 units; Detroit, 4,186 units; Phoenix 3,185 units; Philadelphia, 3,087 units.

Check heating system, repair problems now

If noises from your heating system disturbed you last winter, now is the time to lorrect the problem, says the Better Heating-Cooling Council.

The type of heating system and the type of noise will determine what can be done. If you have a warm air duct system you may be hearing the whoosh of blowing air or the buckling of the tin ducts each time the heat goes on and off.

If your ducts are expanding and contracting with each heating cycle, causing strange creaks in the night, a simple solution could be wrapping blanket insulation around all exposed sections. This will muffle the sounds and give you the added benefit of better fuel economy by minimizing wasteful air leakage.

If there is whistling or whooshing air it indicates the veolcity is too great. Have your heating contractor check the ducts to locate undersized restrictions, or determine if the fan speed can be slowed a bit.

If you have a hot water heating system and you hear a slight gurgling when the heat comes on, it is easily remedied. That noise is caused by air moving through the tubing with the water. There are 'bleed' valves in various places in your heating system. Open these for a few moments and you will hear the air hissing out; when you see a few drops of water close the air vent, and the problem is over.

THE MASTER MINDS, a group of 19 Realtors from all over the United States, recently met in Atlanta, Ga., to compare statistics on each of the firms. They confirmed the fact that 1975 was a much better residential year than 1974 and in their opinion 1976 will be even better. The 19 Master Mind Realtors, consisting of 114 offices with approximately 1,672 salespeople, had an increase of residential sales volume of slightly over 20 per cent from 1974 to 1975.

This grouping of Realtors showed an average sale price for 1975 of $40,162 which was up 6.95 per cent over 1974, and had an average listing price of $37,662 which was 8.15 per cent up over 1974.

The Master Minds are represented in Chiagoland by Edward J. Busse, president of Annen & Busse, Inc., Realtors, who stated that his firm's statistics are running slightly above that of the Master Minds average as far as percentage increase in total sales volume.

Dow gains 2.80 in selective buying

NEW YORK (UPI) — Selective buying was the major factor Wednesday as prices registered a modest gain in stepped-up but trendless trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Many institutional investors, who made large commitments in January and February, remained on the sidelines. Some were waiting for Federal Reserve Board figures Thursday on the nation's money supply.

The Fed has sparked a rise in interest rates by tightening credit to stem a surge in the money supply recently, although last week's figures showed a $1.5 billion decline.

The closely-watched Dow Jones industrial average, off more than two points at the outset, gained 2.80 points to 975.93. It had lost 2.10 points Tuesday as interest rates continued to rise.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index added 0.37 to 100.22, the NYSE common stock index gained 0.17 to 53.33 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased 10 cents.

Breadth figures, however, revealed considerable investor uncertainty. Advances edged declines, 746 to 635, and 438 remained unchanged, among the 1,819 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 16,120,000 shares, up from the 13,880,000 traded Tuesday, the second slowest trading session of the year.

Baxter-Travenol Laboratories topped the Big Board actives, off 1 to 33¼ on 488,900 shares, including blocks of 359,600 shares at 33¼ and 100,000 shares at 33½.

Put finances into focus, then buy house: survey

The most common error committed by people buying a home is that they don't establish a proper picture of their financial needs.

This was the finding in a survey of real estate firms and savings and loan associations conducted by Red Carpet Corporation of America. The real estate franchise firm's survey asked respondents to identify the most common 'goofs' made in the home-buying process.

Ranking second was the problem of not taking advantage of professional assistance available from reputable attorneys, real estate brokers, mortgage consultants and builders.

The third most common goof was considering a house purchase from an emotional rather than a rational viewpoint.

Faulty analysis of one's financial situation was far and away the number one home-buying error cited in the survey, according to Frank G. Larkin, midwest manager for Red Carpet Corporation.

"What most of the real estate brokers referred to," he said, "was actually a refusal by a home-hunting couple to face up to the facts. They see a home they like and then stretch their financial capacities to and often beyond the breaking point in signing the papers."

Len Kelley of Kelley 7 Realtor, Villa Park, said that many buyers, especially young ones, simply don't take into account the monthly mortgage payments and tax set-asides and the upkeep costs which lie beyond the purchase price. "As the old phrase goes, they 'fall in love' with a house and then find themselves in hot water when they have to assume the actual dollar costs."

A Downers Grove broker, referring to a "double vision" syndrome, said that a couple will start out looking at homes they really would prefer but which are financially out of reach—"then, when we've got them to scale down their objectives, the affordable house looks pretty unexciting."

A number of replies mentioned couples "going it on their own" and fumbling about through lack of professional guidance. "People seem to feel that it's only the seller who needs legal advice," said St. Charles realtor Marce VanGlabek, "but since a house is the most expensive purchase people make, it's only common sense to get expert help. And many don't."

A mortgage officer at a major loop S&L institution professed awe at the casual approach people make to this "biggest purchase."

"They enter the first stages of a home-buying agreement all by themselves and they don't know that there are service charges, title costs, credit report costs and other closing charges."

Harry McDonagh of H. F. McDonagh & Co., Winnetka, referring to emotion ruling over reason in house-hunting, cited a refusal to consider negative aspects of a house. "I've seen people just decide they want this house and almost deliberately overlook elements that are bad. This is no way to find happiness in a new home."

On the same topic, Larry Armondo, a Fox Lake realtor, said that young people especially err in buying with their hearts and not their heads. "They'd like to have now what it took their parents 25 years to get."

NI-Gas tells ways to cool off summer

Keep yourself and your home cooler during the hot days ahead while saving on energy and utility bills by following this "summer-ization" checklist from Northern Illinois Gas Company.

Shield out summer heat with insulation, weather stripping and caulking. The same thermal principals which keep your home warm in winter help keep hot air outside in summer. So don't wait until fall to protect your home against heat transfer.

Even if you have air conditioning, the insulating qualities of storm windows and doors can be put to good use in summer, too. Leave storms on, especially if you have air conditioning.

Shade is everyone's friend. Create indoor shade by closing draperies and blinds. And why not plant trees and bushes for additional future shade around your home?

Use air conditioning only when necessary. When your unit is operating, set the thermostat slightly higher than normal and generally no more than 10 degrees cooler than outside temperatures. Keep window and central air conditioning units working properly by cleaning or replacing filters regularly.

Run your automatic dishwasher only during the cooler hours of morning and evening. The same goes for the oven. Try to plan meals that don't require much cooking, cover saucepans, use lower range settings or cook outdoors. Avoid using the self-cleaning features of ovens during mid-day. Keep the opening of your refrigerator and freezer to a minimum.

When laundering, wash only full loads, again avoiding the hottest hours. Many summer fabrics require cold water washing and cool drying temperatures — a plus to look for when shopping for family clothes.

Encourage your family to bathe or shower during the cooler hours. Expel heat and water vapor with exhaust fans, but flick them off when not in use.

Throughout your home, turn off heat-generating appliances and lights whenever possible. Close off unused rooms, except when they provide needed ventilation.

Walks your responsibility, check them

Mr. Meltzer on real estate

by Bernard Meltzer

Often this column receives letters from readers who have advice they wish to pass on in order to spare others some of the unpleasant experiences they have had. Here is a typical example.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Last winter a section of the sidewalk in front of my house lifted and caused a tripping hazard. I have waited patiently for something to be done about this, but the hazard is still there.

About two weeks ago a man tripped on the sidewalk and ripped his pants when he fell. He knocked on my door and told me I owed him a pair of trousers. I told him he should blame the city — not me. He said it was my sidewalk, and therefore my responsibility.

He was very angry and began to insult me. At that point, I told him that if he didn't leave at once I would have my dog chase him.

I let my German Shepherd out of the house, and Herman bit him immediately. Several weeks later I was charged with a civil action and a criminal action. My lawyer tells me I am in big trouble. I think your readers can profit from my mistake. —IN THE DOG HOUSE.

Many homeowners do not realize that they are responsible for the side walks in front of their properties. Spring is a perfect time to examine your sidewalk and see if the ravages of winter have done any damage which could be hazardous. If so, you should repair it right way.

Your liability insurance will generally protect you from someone who does hurt himself. Insurance is better protection in this case than a big dog.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My warehouse has a flat roof that is leaking in several places. Following your advice, I have contacted several roofers in order to obtain a number of estimates for repairing the roof.

I have four bids. Two are for some thing known as a slag roof. The other two bids are for a coated roof. Each roofer tells me that his proposal is the best. Can you tell me what the difference is? —LEAKY ROOF.

Slag is a stone byproduct that is used to cover a flat, builtup asphalt roof. This is the type of roof generally found on one-story commercial and in dustrial buildings.

The purpose of the slag is to prevent direct sunlight from drying out the roof. The result is that the roof will have a longer life. It is easy to identify a slag roof because it appears to be covered with small stones.

The alternative to this is the roof without slag. This has a smooth black finish. It will be less expensive than slag and will deteriorate faster unless it is periodically coated. The cost of coating will offset the money saved from not using slag. Therefore, from a dollar standpoint, the two roof systems are equal.

You may find that the roof without slag is easier to repair, should there be a leak.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: We just bought a very large house for a very low price. The insurance company wants us to carry more fire insurance than it cost me to purchase it. This doesn't sound right to me.

Can you explain this? — ALL FIRED UP.

Insurance coverage is not based on the market value of a property, but rather on the cost of reproducing it in its current condition. It is very common in the case of a large, older house that it would cost more to build the house today than it would be worth if a sale were to occur.

Even after physical depreciation is deducted, it may be more than the market value. Insufficient insurance can cause serious problems in the event of a fire. I would suggest you consult a qualified insurance appraiser to learn how much insurance to carry.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My husband and I are building a new home, and I have the impression that the architect and builder are trying to take us over.

In reviewing the plans, I thought that the doors to our house should not be any wider than 24 inches, since this is ample. The architect wants to use much larger doors.

Is 24 inches enough? — TWO FOOTER.

If you were to install doors in your new house that were only 24 inches wide, you would be making a serious mistake. The standard residential door is 6 feet 8 inches in height and 30 inches wide.

In fact, you will find it very difficult to move furniture through a door that is much narrower. If you insist on smaller doors to save a few dollars, you may find that your house is obsolete as soon as it is constructed, which could result in a substantial loss of value.

Post-flood actions could reduce loss of property

Knowing what to do after a flood can reduce property loss and help ensure personal safety said John Wrend, vice president, Property Loss Research Bureau.

The Property Loss Research Bureau, an affiliate of the American Mutual Insurance Alliance, is a nonprofit association maintained by member insurance companies to serve as an educational and consultive agency on property loss matters.

When entering buildings after a flood, Wrend said not to force a door if it won't open. The flooring may be buckled or debris may be piled against it. Enter by a window, and if necessary, open the door by removing the hinge pins with a screwdriver and hammer.

Move about the building slowly and have sufficient lighting. Watch for loose floor boards, protruding nails, sagging ceiling plaster and sagging floors or walls that are out of plumb.

Wrend said basements should be drained and cleaned as soon as possible since getting the furnace into operation will speed the drying process. Don't pump out the basement, however, before surrounding flood waters have subsided. Then, pump the water out in stages to permit seepage through the walls, thus relieving pressure.

Open all doors, windows and closets. If windows are swollen shut, gently remove the small strip (inner stop) that holds the lower sash by using a wood chisel. Raise the lower sash slightly to clear the stool (sill). Have someone on the outside push the lower sash inward.

Be sure that all roof, attic eaves and other vents are clear and open.

Fullers earth, silica gels and other absorbent products will speed the drying process.

Building heat should be 15 degrees above outside temperatures, and the heating system should be thoroughly checked before starting up.

Don't be anxious to tear out saturated walls or slightly warped floors. Wait until the surface is dry before making the decision.

To dry the area between walls, Wrend said the baseboard should be removed and weep holes drilled about two inches from the floor.

If the building has strip-type exterior siding, first remove the bottom and top strips. Then, drill holes in the sheathing or insulation board. Be sure one or two holes are drilled at the top and bottom of each stud space. This will allow air to circulate between the walls.

Wooden floors, woodwork and doors should be washed with a mild alkali solution such as four to six tablespoons of washing soda to a gallon of water. Wash before the building dries out.

Don't rub wet plaster or wet drywall. When exposed to flood water these surfaces lost a substantial amount of strength and are soft to the touch while wet. Their hardness and strength, however, will usually return when they are dried. Dry first, then clean.

If care is taken, rugs and wall-to-wall carpeting can be saved. Most carpeting made of wool or man-made fibers can be cleaned. First, remove as much water as possible with a water vacuum. Then loosen diagonal corners and insert fans. The remainder of the carpeting should be left intact. This is the quickest way to dry carpeting and also it prevents shrinkage. Later, obtain professional cleaning help.

Carpeting exposed to salt water should be thoroughly flushed with fresh water. All wet carpeting should be bacterially treated to kill mold and mildew fungi.

Don't let the sight of flood damaged property cause you to start throwing things out. At first, the clean-up job may appear hopeless. Doors may be warped and jammed, kitchen cabinets ruined, windows smashed by floating furniture and a heavy layer of mud on carpeting and floors. Still there is a great deal that can be salvaged if immediate proper restoration steps are taken.

"These points are suggested as guidelines," Wrend said. "When in doubt, always consult with an expert in the field that you are questioning."

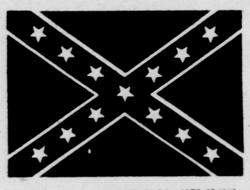
STARS & STRIPES

Number 17 in a series



THE SOUTHERN CROSS

At the outbreak of Civil War in 1861, the Confederacy moved quickly to establish its own flag — a flag that would change many times during its short life.

The first of the Confederate flags, created in 1861, had three broad stripes — two red and one white. The canton was blue with a circle of white stars, one for each state. In battle, however, this flag looked so much like the Union's that it confused the troops.

Because of this confusion, Southern soldiers adopted, unofficially, the famous (and still popular) Southern Cross with 13 white stars along a blue diagonal cross on a red field.

In 1863, the battle cross became the canton on a white field. But this flag, when furled, looked like a white flag of truce.

To overcome this, the Confederate Congress, on March 4, 1865, added a broad red vertical stripe to the outer half of the white field.

A month later the war ended. But what of the Stars and Stripes during this period?

When the Southern states seceded, angry Northerners demanded that the rebel stars be removed from the Union flag, but President Lincoln would not allow it. Throughout the war, the Stars and Stripes flew in the North as it always had — for all Americans.

Ideas needed on ways to improve mobile homes

The public is being asked to contribute its suggestions to proposed revisions of the mobile homes construction and safety standards issued by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The proposed amendments and accompanying proposed interpretive bulletins designed to clarify the standards were published May 11 in the Federal Register.

The National Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 required the Federal Government to issue standards to improve the quality and durability of mobile homes, based on existing statt and local laws.

For the past year HUD has been working with the Mobile Home Advisory Council appointed under the Act, consumers, the mobile home industry and Federal and State agencies in de veloping the standards. They were published last Dec. 18 and become effective June 15.

HUD continues to work with outside groups to improve the standards before they become effective. These latest proposed changes reflect the Department's intent to be responsive to public comment. The bulletins are the result of many questions from industry for interpretations of the standards.

The proposed amendments include:

• the manufacturer would be re quired to attach a label to each section of a mobile home certifying it has been built and inspected according to Federal requirements and to the best knowledge and belief of manuacturer is in conformance with the standards.

• the plumber's trademark could be attached to each fixture instead of the manufacturer's name.

• testing procedures would be clarified for finding leaks in showers.

• fire protection requirements would also apply to exterior access doors to the furnace and water heater areas.

• a change would be made in the procedure for testing the strength of roof trusses.

The twenty-eight proposed interpretive bulletins cover a wide range of subjects including building specifications and materials and the design of the chassis of mobile homes.

All interested persons are invited to submit their comments by June 10, to the Rules Docket Clerk, Office of the Secretary, Room 10141, Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451 Seventh Street, Southwest, Washington, D. C. 20410.

Heated tubes will melt snow

On these hot summer days it is foresighted to give thought to getting your car out of the driveway next winter. Hot water tubing to melt the snow can be installed in your driveway while you're away on your summer vacation, suggests the Better Heating-Cooling Council. When you get back home your heating contractor can spend a day in the basement tying in the snowmelting system to your boiler.

You do not have to rip up the whole driveway; it is usually sufficient to lay the tubing in the path of the wheel tracks. Then when it starts snowing next winter, you simply throw an indoor switch and the two tracks down to the street are clear and dry.

The Awning That Breathes
CHOICE OF MANY STYLES AND COLORS

VENTAIRE AWNINGS HAVE PATENTED UNIT CONSTRUCTION — NOT SLATS

The strong Alcoa Aluminum used in the Ventaire Aluminum Awning is 25% Thicker than in most other awnings. It is processed under strict controls to insure uniform quality and strength.

Strong Aluminum Construction . . . fireproof, storm resistant, can't tear, rot, rust, sag or wear out.

Stays up all year . . . Ventaire's patented light admitting feature eliminates the problem of take-down and storing — you get protection all year.

Exceptional Savings . . . reduces the load on your air conditioning system — reduces home repair, decorating and prevents damage to weather-exposed windows and doors.

Colorful beauty that endures . . . all Ventaire materials are pre-paint treated with the Aldoine system to insure a long lasting maintenance free enamel finish. Paint is applied to the Aluminum after all forming to eliminate rupturing the paint.

Nationally advertised by the Aluminum Company of America and in use nationally for 20 years.

An enlarged view of the Ventaire Awning's exclusive patented perforation that gives see-through ventilation and maximum protection.

Each Ventilator-Perforation has its own efficient formed hood to keep out direct sun rays and the rain and snow.

Notice that the Ventaire Awning covering is a perforated and crimped sheet — not a group of slats.

In every square foot of Ventaire Aluminum awning perforated material you get over 40 "see-through" Ventilators that give you 14 big square inches of unrestricted ventilation.

BILL STARNES dispenses tender, loving care generously as he scoots around 4-South at Holy Family Hospital "escorting" Mary Chesney of Rolling Meadows. Bill says he rarely sits down during the three eight-hour days he volunteers at the hospital.

Male volunteers

Retirees love hospital activity

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

William Kedrowski, 75, railroad fireman and engineer for more than 47 years, enjoyed smiling and waving to friendly folks along his routes. When he retired, he missed his job, the people. Besides, he doesn't think it's good for him and wife, Olga, "to be in each other's laps all the time," he said, laughing.

Marvin Jonas agrees with Bill. "Retirement is not what it is cooked up to be," he confided with wry smile. Marvin, 68, did copy and layout work in advertising for Montgomery Ward 40 years before retiring. He had been around people all his life, and he didn't like retirement, he said.

William Starnes, 65, industrial sales engineer for 3M Company 35 years, retired recently. Bill lived and worked at fast pace. He knew he couldn't slow down suddenly, so he and his wife, Cresentia, planned his retirement.

ALL THREE MEN volunteer their time, talents and friendship at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. The service fills the void left by retirement, and gives them satisfaction, the retirees agree.

Neatly dressed in suit and tie, youthful appearing Bill Kedrowski volunteers four hours daily in the lobby at Holy Family. Part-time guard there for eight years, he retired a second time some three years ago. He's not quite sure whether he missed the job more, or the people he got to know missed him more.

"Sister Amata told me people constantly asked for me, and she asked me to volunteer as lobby watchman," Bill recalled. Bill's glad he did.

KEDROWSKI WILL continue greeting people, opening their car doors and holding hospital entrance doors for them as long as he stays healthy.

"The people I meet are so nice. Olga keeps busy, too, and it's good for our marriage."

Bill has a word for other retirees, too. "Volunteer work is good for your health. Other retirees I knew who were my age are gone!" he said, eyes twinkling.

Of his hospital rounds Marvin Jonas says, "I chat with patients, get to know them. And I sometimes meet others I know; former employes, neighbors."

MARVIN LOOKS forward to Wednesdays and Fridays, his days at the hospital. He sometimes fills in other's days when he's needed.

"If you are sitting around at home, especially during winter months, it's great to get out, to be around people," he declared.

Jonas, who has but few gray hairs yet, began volunteering at Holy Family at the suggestion of his wife, Rose, who has been a volunteer at Holy Family for 10 years. Right now she is ill. "When my wife gets better, I'd like to give more time," he said. "Working and walking around the hospital are good for the health. The exercise, and the people contact are the best thing in the world!"

Tall, husky Bill Starnes echoes the enthusiasm of his fellow volunteers. He's lost unwanted weight since volunteering on Holy Family's medical floor. Bill rarely sits down.

"I LOVE WHAT I'm doing, and I have charisma. I can see the vital needs, and I help the nurses, too, whenever I can."

Bill's wife has been volunteering at Holy Family since its doors first opened. She knew the special needs for male volunteers, and she and Bill planned two years for him to join the program.

Bill goes out of his way to help patients. He loves them, and they love him, if their letters of gratitude and friendship tell the story. "You look into their eyes, and know they need you. It gives you such a feeling of warmth."

Bill starts his day at 6 a.m., sometimes earlier. He fills water pitchers for 46 beds, gets coffee for anyone who asks.

"I give friendship, affection, support to those who need it."

AFTER TRAINING six weeks in the physical therapy department to gain expertise in handling patients, Bill also helps them physically. He shampoos their hair, helps bathe and feed them and gives assistance in other non-medical care activities, where his strength is helpful.

Starnes, Kedrowski and Jonas recommend volunteer work to other men.

"If you want to get younger, come here!" Bill exalted. "In just a few months, I went from 200 to 190 pounds, and from a 46 inch waist to 41!"

And for Bill it's a real ego trip, he said. "When I'm not here, patients and nurses tell me later, 'Bill, we missed you! It's so darned rewarding!'"

"Volunteers help the hospital to develop a spiritual conscience . . . the vital elements of warmth and friendliness so essential to the patient's recovery and rehabilitation," says Terry Uselmann, volunteer director at Holy Family Hospital. Anyone wishing to enrich his own life as well as be of service to others, may call 297-1800, extension 1160, and ask for her. Volunteers need only be healthy; there's no age limit, she said.

PBC: Radicals and patriots

by Monica Wilch Perin

A reader recently called this reporter to question a mention made of the People's Bicentennial Commission in a story about a Federal Trade Commission monopoly case.

The PBC was cited briefly near the end of the story as having as its acknowledged goal the breakup and redistribution of economic power, the same end sought in the FTC case.

The reader called to my attention a Senate subcommittee report on the PBC accusing it of trying to "steal" the Bicentennial and of harboring "left-wing radicals." He seemed to think my article equated the PBC with the FTC and thus with "motherhood and apple pie." To this he strongly objected.

First, let us briefly review who and what the People's Bicentennial Commission is. PBC was founded in 1971 in reaction against what was already shaping up to be a commercial takeover of the Bilentennial.

"PBC BELIEVES the Bicentennial is the critical time to re-commit our nation to its original values — the values of government of, by and for the people; freedom from political and economic oppression; social justice," wrote former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, a founder of PBC.

Pointing out that a mere one per cent of Americans own nearly three-quarters of all corporate stock, the PBC wrote a Declaration of Economic Independence calling for the "abolition of these giant institutions of tyranny and the establishment of new economic enterprises . . . to provide for the equal and democratic participation of all American citizens in the economic decisions that affect (them)."

THE BOSTON TEA Party, one PBC brochure points out, was an economic protest by the patriots against a multinational tea monopoly — the East India Company — and its protector, King George.

The PBC has been controversial, to put it mildly. It early won some admiring verbal bouquets from various members of the press, including conservative columnist James Kilpatrick, but of late has fallen on thorns as it relentlessly treads on the toes of economic power and patriotic myth.

The Senate report to which my caller referred was the result of an "exhaustive" investigation by Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., and his Internal Security Subcommittee. Sen. Eastland, a millionaire landowner, gathered testimony from a grand total of two witnesses — a retired Army officer and a private citizen named Mrs. Walton. No one representing PBC was invited to testify in defense.

SEN. EASTLAND then decreed that the PBC "is a far-left organization whose true views are far closer to those of Castro and Mao than they are to those of the Founding Fathers . . ."

Now, as to Sen. Eastland's idea of the Founding Fathers' views, here are a couple points of reference:

"I hope we shall crush in its birth the aristocracy of our moneyed corporatons, which dare already to challenge our government to a trial of strength and bid defiance to the laws of our country." — Thomas Jefferson.

"CIVILIZATION has operated two ways, to make one part of society more affluent and the other part more wretched than would have been the lot of either in a natural state." — Tom Paine.

As for the charge that the PBC is "left-wing radical," that is a label which says a lot more about the person using it than those to whom it is applied. It carries strong accusatory connotations but is basically indefinable. No two people's idea of what constitutes a left-wing radical is the same, and certainly neither the Constitution nor any court of law has, thankfully provided a definition. The closest we've come to having an official definition of such a term was during the McCarthy hearings.

Moreover, if "left-wing radical" could be defined and it could be proven the PBC qualifies as such, so what? Even "left-wing radicals" have a right to exist and think and speak under the United States Constitution, which certainly does not owe its survival to those who would silence "left-wing radicals."

A Bicentennial trek

Family works way across the country

by CLARENCE D. BASSETT

The robust Smith family from the Missouri hamlet of Collins is literally picking its way across the USA, from Anchorage to Albany, in a year-long odyssey which began on the Fourth of July.

"We decided this could be our way of celebrating the Bicentennial," said Paul R. Smith, a Missouri strawberry farmer, who set out with his wife, Maria, and their two teenaged children, Joseph, 15, and Marlene, 18, to discover America.

So far the Smiths have shuttled 42,000 miles between dozens of jobs in 43 states and have learned — according to daughter Marlene — how to pick everything that grows on a limb."

And if their Volkswagen "Beetle" with 93,000 miles holds up, they hope to make the other seven states by this July 4.

"We're studying history," Smith said as he and his family visited the New York capitol last week. "History, to all of us, is very interesting and we're learning just as much as we can."

The family last July leased its strawberry farm outside of Collins, Mo., a town of about 150 people, and left with about $500 in cash and "faith that things would work out, that we'd be able to get work when we needed to."

By working in the fields and taking odd jobs, they have since returned the $500 to the Missouri bank.

"We found out we just didn't need it," Smith said with an easy Missouri accent.

They have logged 42,000 miles in their car, which has a large carrier strapped on top and the names of all the states they have visited crowded on the back.

To cut down on expenses, they have camped out most of the time. On a 2,000-mile excursion to Alaska, their tent was often the only shelter available.

On the other side of the coin, the Smiths enjoyed luxury for a week at a Waikiki beach hotel. Their Hawaiian trip was financed by six weeks' work in California's Salinas Valley, which netted the family the $2,000 price of a package tour.

"One week we were picking chili peppers, and, wow, the next it was luxury in a Waikiki beach hotel," said Marlene, who plans to enter college in September if they make it to Indiana in time to take her college entrance exams.

The low point of the trip occurred as they were working in the orchards of Washington's Enatchee Valley. Smith fell as he was picking peaches and broke his left arm.

And then, less than a month later, Joseph fell from an apple tree and broke his right arm.

Economy has been the watchword to stretch every dollar the most miles.

"We didn't attend movies of anything like that," Smith said. "The library was one of our favorite pastimes."

Louisiana was another "working state," with Smith taking a job as a cable technician. "I didn't have the slightest idea how to do it when I started," he said

Mrs. Smith worked as a dish-washer. "I'd never seen a big machine like that before," she said.

Marlene and Joe worked as a pizza cook and a painter. Their tour has included many historical spots along the way. "We don't have too strict of a plan, we just like to keep loose and go this way or that as it moves us," Smith said.

For four days they rode New York subways. "We were lost most of the time," Marlene said.

"But New York State turned out to be one of our favorite states." By July 4, the Smiths hope to visit Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa.

The next working state will be Indiana.

"And we'll make it," Mrs. Smith said, "as long as the car and the jobs hold out."

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Toss out those old Vitamin C tablets

Dear Dr. Lamb — Is it true that vitamin C tablets not only lose their potency but also develop some sort of a poison with age, that is if they are kept a long period of time?

About four years ago a doctor recommended I get natural vitamin C and I bought two jars of 400 tablets. I used one and the other got mislaid in moving two or three times. Now I have found it. Can I safely take them?

Dear Reader — Throw them away. It is true that vitamin C tablets, natural or synthetic, lose their potency with time. Even if the tablets are stored in a refrigerator they will lose about half of their potency in a year's time.

Recent studies show that vitamin C is converted to oxalic acid. This substance has been implicated in triggering diabetes, kidney stones and urinary tract infections. These problems are more likely to occur in the person who takes very large doses of old vitamin C.

I AM SENDING you The Health Letter number 3-3, Vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid) to give you a better idea of what you can and cannot expect from taking vitamin C. Others can obtain this information by forwarding 50 cents with a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Certainly vitamin C is an important and essential vitamin for health. Your best source of it is in good wholesome foods found in a balanced diet, specifically fruits and vegetables.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 19, in great physical condition, and lift weights three days a week. I would like to know how much milk is too much for me. I have been drinking a gallon a day for its protein content but have heard that much is harmful to the bones and also makes the face break out. Is this true?

Dear Reader — Milk is a good source of both protein and calcium. You don't need that much protein though to build a good muscular body. A gallon of milk will give you 136 grams of protein. You won't need more than 100 grams of protein from milk, meat and all sources combined to give you enough for muscle building. A pound of lean muscle will contain only 100 grams of protein.

THE PROBLEM is that a gallon of milk also gives you 440 milligrams of cholesterol and the daily recommended limit is about 300. You will need part of that allotment in eating meat, fish, chicken and other important foods that also contain cholesterol. Milk is also high in fat. Whole milk contains 34 grams of fat a quart or or about 300 calories in whole milk are from fat. It is properly classified as a high fat food. You can eliminate the dangers of a high fat cholesterol intake by using fortified skim milk or buttermilk.

THE CALCU Mis not a problem. If you take in more than you need it will simply be eliminated from the body, either through the urine or it won't be absorbed in the first place. The milk will not cause your face to break out unless you have some form of allergy which is most unlikelly

. I would recommend that you have a quart of fortified skim milk daily and balance your diet with adequate amounts of poultry, fish and lean meats.

Scratches on a mirror need more than magic

Dear Dorothy: Help! How do you remove scratches from a mirror? Inadvertently, I washed a heavy, expensive, decorative mirror with a scouring pad and scratched it. Though the mirror is smooth, the scratches make it look dirty. Please produce your "magic wand" for me. I'll be forever grateful. —Rosalyn Tarnoff

Would love to produce a magic wand, Rosalyn, but you are into what sounds like an impossible repair job. A "dirty look" usually means something is wrong with the silvering. Normally, with a fine scratch, a bit of jeweler's rouge can take care of it. But mirrors with deep scratches require a buffing wheel which often results in a concave appearance — and distortion. Your best bet is to check with a good mirror outfit. Have to warn you in advance that mirror repairs often cost more than a new mirror.

Dear Dorothy: Is it better to keep an opened can of coffee in the refrigerator or freezer? —Mrs. James Weese.

Technically, the freezer. However, if a can of coffee isn't going to last for too long a time (like a month), keeping it in the refrigerator is sufficient to hold the aroma.

Dear Dorothy: Maybe I'm a fuddy-duddy, but the ways some readers devise to use slivers of soap astound me. Why not the simple way of wetting that bit of soap and pressing it on a new bar? No fuss, no bother, and you get the full use of the tiny leftover. —Cynthia Currie

Dear Dorothy: Build-ups in pans and kettles can often be removed by soaking in vinegar. Also, heating a pan that has boiled dry will often burn off the residue, when scrubbing doesn't help at all. —Edith Oldham

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Curse those mosquitoes!

Potting shed
by Mary B. Good

Mention mosquito, and it's bound to elicit a chuckle.

But mosquitoes are no laughing matter when you're out in the garden trying to get the last of the corn and beans into the ground and you're fighting a squadron of nasty little Kamikaze attackers.

In 25 years of serious gardening, I have never been able to get everything planted by Memorial Day. I mean never!

It's not that I don't kill myself trying. I start seeds indoors in March, prepare the compost and set out peas and onions in April, turn the rest of the ground and add all my juicy humus and stuff in early May. Just when I think I've got it all together, the weather gets cold, the moon is in the wrong phase, the sun is too strong, the wind is from the wrong direction, or it rains like crazy.

WHEN THE WEATHER is finally settled and conditions are attractive for me to be out in the fresh air, it's also attractive to the mosquitoes. Where are all the Purple Martins, toads, dragonflies and bats when you really need them?

I've tried repellents, garlic juice and Listerine rubbed on the skin, heavy clothing, mosquito net hats, and still I'm a living welt. (I'm even considering bear grease this year.)

During the initial spring bugout, hardly anything deters the female mosquito. She must sip blood because she needs it for the development of eggs inside her body. And nothing will stop a pregnant mosquito! Each momma may lay 1,000 to 3,000 eggs during her 10 to 30 day life span.

MISERY LOVES company, but it is little comfort to know that mosquitoes are found in all parts of the world — even the North Pole and Siberia!

"Perfume, deodorant, body powder, makeup, hair spray — anything that is scented — that's what attracts mosquitoes," the area's unofficial Bird Watcher told me — "even carbon dioxide that you exhale during respiration." The funny lady said, "Stop breathing, and they'll bug off."

It's only the female mosquito that bites, and she doesn't actually "bite" because she cannot open her jaws. What she does is stab a victim with a proboscis composed of six needle-like stylets.

The mosquito keeps the victim's blood from clotting with her saliva. Since most people are allergic to mosquito saliva, that is why the itchy welt occurs. Mosquitoes suck as much as one and a half times their body weight with a single injection into the flesh.

I UNDERSTAND why gardeners don't sow carrots, lettuce, and other teeny-weeny seeds thinly enough. It's not that they don't care. It's because once out in the garden on hands and knees, buttocks in the air, nose to the soil, the scene titillates the mosquitoes!

The gardener says to himself/herself: "I'm getting chewed alive. I'll just toss the seeds in and when the mosquitoes aren't around later I'll thin the seedlings. Right now I can't stand them, but I MUST get the stuff in the ground." Later in the season, he notices that the carrots are so closely planted — always winding up in bunches here and open spaces there — that the gardener either gets nothing or has to spend countless hours pulling up the weaker seedlings — sometimes still accompanied by the drone of mosquitoes — that noise sure isn't a hummingbird!

Sometimes the going gets so rough, the desperate gardener is almost tempted to say to himself, "The heck with it. I'll just toss the seed packets in the plot, and maybe the seeds will find their way out when it rains!"

Curse those blood-sucking mosquitoes! Any crop failure I have this year, I'm blaming on them. (They are as good a fall guy as any!)

Christian women set luncheons

Two Christian Women's Clubs in the area will be having the same program for their June luncheons next week.

Guest speaker will be Joanne Wallace, a former Mrs. Oregon, who is the founder of a chain of charm schools throughout the western states.

Her daughter, Deanna, newly crowned Miss Polk County '76, will also appear in a musical program. Deanna will be returning to her home state for the Miss Oregon finals in July.

THEIR FIRST appearance is Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. at the Northwest Suburban Christian Women's Club luncheon at Arlington Park Hilton. A parade of "Yesterday and Today" wedding gowns is also on the program.

Reservations are necessary and babysitting is free. Cost of the luncheon is $4.15 with tickets available by calling 392-2368 or 885-0911.

Elgin Area Christian Women's Club plans its luncheon for Thursday, June 10, at the Blue Moon Restaurant, Elgin. Reservations, at $3.85, are due at noon Monday by calling Anise Best, 837-7506. A nursery is provided at 50 cents per luncheon guest.

Newcomers' new officers

New officers of Arlington Heights Newcomers Club will be installed next Wednesday at the club's monthly luncheon. Cocktails will be served at noon followed by a 1 p.m. luncheon at Seven Eagles Restaurant, Des Plaines.

Happenings

Anne Zemper will install Mary Brown as president; Ruth Zimmerman, vice president; Marcy Haupt and Pat de Andrea, secretaries; Linda Dunning, treasurer; and Mary Beth Haugen, past president; adviser.

Area hairdresser named Stylemaker of the Year

A Northwest suburban hairdresser of 30 years, Roy Oman of The Hairdressers, Rolling Meadows, recently won state honors and was named the Illinois Stylemaker of the Year. Oman's winning coiffeur was one he designed for actess Julie Wilson, now appearing at Theater in the Round, Chicago.

Also a winner of the Northwest suburban stylemaker contest, Oman will now compete for national honors this July in Minnesota.

Hairstyle entries in these contests are not judged only on style itself. The style must be designed on a person who is "in the public eye," and the hairdresser must have designed the hair several times prior to the contest entry. The hairdresser is also judged on his or her service to the community.

Diverse courses begin in June

Four new courses will be offered at Greenerfields Unlimited, Northbrook, Wednesdays, from June 23 to July 28.

One course, based on the television series, "Upstairs, Downstairs," will examine the typical British family and the importance of money and status in British society.

Another course will help mothers prepare their children for the 21st Century.

Classes entitled "Building a Self-Employed 'career,'" and "Short Story Masterpieces" round out the offerings.

Registrations for all courses will be taken at 446-0525 until classes are filled.

Weddings

Patricia Dorsey– Gary Hildebrand

St. Peter Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, was the setting for the April 24 wedding of Patricia J. Dorsey, daughter of the George Dorseys of Arlington Heights, and Gary Hildebrand, son of the Arthur Hildebrands of Oak Park.

A reception followed at The Barn of Barrington, after which the newlyweds spent a short honeymoon in Las Vegas.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hildebrand

The bride's sister, Jane Tuggle, Bloomington, was her matron of honor, with Virginia Burbank, Chicago, and the groom's sister, Barbara, as bridesmaids.

GARY'S BROTHER, Philip, was best man, while another brother, Jack, ushered along with Ken Degnan, Minneapolis, and Al Harte, Peoria.

The bride's 8-year-old niece, Nicole Meyers of Delmar, N.Y., was flower girl.

The couple are making their home in Chicago where the bridegroom works for A. J. Hildebrand Co. Patricia graduated from Drake University with a degree in English; her husband attended St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn.

Deborah Lee Boryca – John Jay Eldridge

Just two days after their wedding it was off to Madrid, Spain, for Deborah Lee Boryca and John Jay Eldridge. John, who entered the Air Force after his high school graduation, trained in Texas and Colorado and will now be stationed at Torrejon Air Force Base, Torrejon, Spain.

Both Deborah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boryca, Mount Prospect, and John, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Eldridge, Mount Prospect, are '75 graduates of Hersey High.

Their wedding took place in St. Emily Church, Mount Prospect, at 4 p.m. May 9 in a pink and white double ring service.

A WHITE JERSEY gown with cotton lace trim was Deborah's choice in wedding gown. A picture hat trimmed in matching lace and veil, and a cascade of white carnations with pink roses, stephanotis and baby's breath completed her ensemble.

Matron of honor was Gayle Denley of South Bend, Ind., and maid of honor was Aileen Shannon, Arlington Heights. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Carrie Boryca and the groom's sisters, Kathy Eldridge and Donna Bartlett; the bride's aunt, Joanne Novak, Chicago; Cindy Schultheis and Lynn Turner, Arlington Heights; and Karen Bootz, Mount Prospect.

FLOWER GIRL was the bride's cousin, 5-year-old Rebel Partipilos, Mount Prospect, and ring bearer was 5-year-old Mike Tummillo, also 5 and a cousin of the bride, Schiller Park.

The maids were in pink jersey gowns trimmed in white cotton lace. They also wore picture hats, and their flowers were white carnations, pink carnations and roses with baby's breath in white baskets.

Best man was Joe Posniak, Mount Prospect, and ushers were the groom's brother, Jeff, Mario Hernandez, Gary McQueen, John Szymanski, Bob Posniak and Rick Sadowski all of Mount Prospect; Vic LaPorte, Chicago; and the groom's brother-in-law, J. B. Bartlett, Vernon Hills.

A dinner reception for 275 guests was held at the Starlight Inn in Schiller Park.

Until her marriage Deborah was employed by Carson Pirie Scott, Mount Prospect.

White House 'sees' history made

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to David Hindley, 14, of Visalia, Calif., for his question:
COULD YOU TELL ME ABOUT THE WHITE HOUSE?

If the rooms of the White House could speak, they would surely reveal wondrous stories of history in the making. They could tell us of the Presidents who lived there and of the momentous decisions they made as they sat alone struggling with problems that have faced a young and growing nation. This elegant structure has housed most of our nation's Presidents, and has been visited by many of the world's leaders.

The White House is the official residence of the President of the United States. It is located at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. in our nation's capital, Washington, D.C. Also called the Executive Mansion, it sits in the middle of a beautifully landscaped park of 18 acres. Its 132 rooms contain the private living quarters of the President and his family, executive offices and rooms for various official and diplomatic functions.

The history of the White House goes back to 1972. In that year the commissioners of the district offered an award of a gold medal worth $500 to the person submitting the best design for the President's House, which was the first official name. James Hoban won the competition, and work began on Oct. 13, 1793. The site for the President's House was selected by George Washington...

The first residents of the White House were President and Mrs. John Adams. In 1800 they moved in, even though the structure was not completed. Thomas Jefferson followed Adams, and it was during his administration that many features of the original White House plans were completed.

In 1814, during the War of 1812, British forces burned the mansion and President and Mrs. James Madison were forced to flee. During the next three years the charred and damaged structure was rebuilt, and in 1817 President and Mrs. James Monroe moved in.

From 1812 to 1902 the building was officially known as the Executive Mansion, even though it had been called the White House since before the fire. In 1902 President Theodore Roosevelt authorized the official adoption of the name "White House."

In 1948 the White House was declared unsafe. President and Mrs. Harry Truman had to move out temporarily while the building's entire interior was reinforced with a steel frame. Other changes have taken place since then, the latest addition being a swimming pool.

Located in Washington, D.C., the White House is an ever-popular tourist attraction. Each year more than 1.5 million visitors pass through the rooms that are open to the public. In addition to the regular tours, special excursions are provided for visitors who have obtained passes from their senators and representatives.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Sam Miller, 10, of West Warwick, R.I., for his question:
HOW ARE NAVEL ORANGES MADE?

The lovely 30-foot or so orange tree you see in an orchard did not just happen. Many processes and several years of careful nourishing account for its lush beauty and productivity. Actually, a navel orange tree did not start from a navel orange seed. In fact, navel oranges usually do not have any seeds, although sometimes there are a few tiny ones inside the little round ball on one end of the fruit.

Most orange trees are produced by a man-made miracle called grafting. Grafting means that the top of one tree and the roots of another are fused to grow together. They merge to make a tree that is better than either one of the parents.

The rootstock may be a bitter orange tree. Its fruit is poor, but it resists diseases and hardships. The trunk of the young rootstock is cut down and grafter with a twig from a seedless orange tree. The clever grafting is cut so that special cells in the rootstock and the twig touch each other and grow together. In a few years, they grow to form a fine tree with sturdy roots and boughs filled with seedless oranges.

The almanac

by United Press International

Today is Thursday, June 3, the 155th day of 1976 with 211 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini.

Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy during the Civil War, was born June 3, 1808. American performers Tony Curtis and Paulette Goddard were born on this date, he in 1925 and she in 1911.

On this day in history:

• In 1937, the Duke of Windsor, formerly King Edward VIII of England, was married to divorcee Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson of Baltimore. He gave up his throne for her.

• In 1940, the Allies completed evacuation of Dunkerque, France, where 350,000 British, French and Belgian troops had been trapped on the Channel Coast by armies of Nazi Germany.

Misfortunes not doom

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

We are indebted to H. W. Kelsey and his "Bridge Logic" for another hand. You have reached three no-trump without showing your club suit and West opens the eight of clubs. One entry is gone from dummy, but you don't worry — or maybe you do.

Anyway, you lead a heart to your queen which holds. You cash your ace of hearts and East drops a club. How can you establish your hearts?

The simple way is to lead a diamond and play dummy's 10. If it holds you will make a lot of tricks. If it loses and a spade comes back, your contract may disappear into thin air.

Do you need four diamond tricks? No, two will be enough.

You lead your queen of diamonds to dummy's king! Now you lead the jack of hearts. West wins but he can't lead that deadly spade. He leads a second club. You take your king and lead a low diamond to dummy's 10 and nine. You are sure of your contract in spite of all your misfortunes.

A BICENTENNIAL TASTE OF NEW ENGLAND

Even in the Chicago area the flavor of the New England and the Bicentennial may be found at seafood counters of area food markets. Fish are tucked into "Igloos" in jet aircrafts to preserve the fresh-caught flavor of food that fueled the founding fathers in 1776, including cod, flounder, scrod, pollock and perch.

However, if your fisherman brings home striped bass instead of mackerel, please feel free to substitute one fish for another. It's true that each fish tastes a little different from any other, but they all blend well with similar ingredients. It's perfectly acceptable to use one fish for another in recipes.

The most important guide to cooking fish is to avoid overcooking. It isn't necessary to tenderize fish by cooking, as it is with red meat. We cook fish simply to soften the small amount of connective tissue present, to make the flesh more easily digestible and to develop the fine flavoring. Overcooking makes the flesh tough and destroys flavor.

BAKED SOLE FILLETS

3 cups well-seasoned medium white sauce
¾ cup grated cheddar cheese
2 pounds fresh sole (or flounder) fillets
½ cup minced clams or mussels (optional), divided
Butter or margarine
Salt and pepper
1 lemon, juice
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Combine white sauce and cheese; stir over low heat until cheese melts. Arrange half the fillets in shallow greased baking dish. Scatter half the clams or mussels (if used) over fillets. Pour sauce over fillets. Arrange remaining fillets on top; scatter with remaining minced clams or mussels (if used). Dot with butter or margarine; sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Remove from oven. Garnish top with chopped eggs and minced parsley. Makes 6 servings.

COD STEAKS TARRAGON WITH PIMIENTO SAUCE

6 small or 3 large cod steaks
Melted butter or margarine
Salt, seasoned pepper, tarragon
Pimiento Sauce

Plan on ½ large steak or 1 small steak per person. Arrange steaks on broiler pan. Brush generously with melted butter; sprinkle with salt, pepper and tarragon. Broil 3 inches below source of heat for 5 to 8 minutes. Turn steaks carefully with a wide spatula. Brush again with melted butter. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and tarragon. Broil 5 to 8 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily. Arrange fish on heated platter. Surround with a border of green beans and corn. Pour Pimiento Sauce over fish. Makes 6 servings.

Pimiento Sauce

Stir 6 tablespoons melted butter or margarine with juice of 1 lemon, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon seasoned pepper. Slice 1 pimiento into thin strips; add to sauce.

Appearances are sometimes deceiving — but never with fish. Look closely for the following signs when buying fresh fish.

SKIN — shiny with distinct color and iridescent appearance. As freshness fades, each species loses its characteristic markings, colors fade and the iridescence disappears (the rainbow stripes on rainbow trout, for example).

EYES — bright, clear and protruding or full. As freshness fades, the eyes become cloudy and often turn pink. They tend to become sunken.

GILLS — red and free from slime. With age, the color of the gills fades to light pink, then gray and, finally, brownish or greenish.

FLESH — firm, clinging tightly to the bones. This is an indication of fresh fish that has been carefully handled. Fillets or steaks should be free of browning around the edges.

ODOR — mild and fresh. Fish that is just taken from the water has almost no odor. The "fishy" aroma becomes more pronounced with time.

WRAPPINGS — moistureproof and vaporproof. There should be little air space between fish and wrapper.

High quality frozen fish has the following characteristics.

FLESH — completely frozen solid. If wrappings are transparent, see that the flesh has no discolorants or freezer burn.

ODOR — little or no odor present. Strong fish odor is a sign of poor quality.

WRAPPINGS — moisture-proof, vaporproof and free from breakage. There should be little or no air space between the fish and wrapping.

(Savory Stuffed Celery)

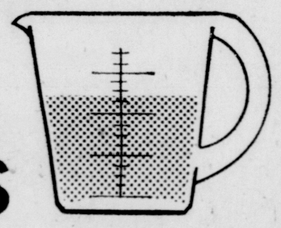
When cookout guests mill around the terrace getting hungrier and hungrier for the main event, keep them happily occupied with a help-yourself tray of stuffed celery.

The Savory Stuffed Celery is only one of many stuffings. For instance, mix drained minced clams, cream cheese, lemon juice to taste, dill and minced onion. Another easy one is a mixture of chopped hard-cooked eggs, mayonnaise, red caviar seasoned with minced chives, a dash of Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of Tabasco. Any of the stuffings can be thinned a bit with milk or half-and-half cream and served as a dunk or dip.

Measurements are given in both metric and American Standard units. Usually dry ingredients are measured in grams in the metric system. But food and utensil manufacturers have developed cups and spoons for both liquid and dry ingredients to make conversion easier for cooks.

Cooking with metrics



SAVORY STUFFED CELERY

5 milliliters or 1 teaspoon powdered mustard
5 milliliters or 1 teaspoon warm water
1 package (227 grams or 8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
125 milliliters (about 125 grams) or ½ cup butter or margarine, softened
10 milliliters or 2 teaspoons caraway seed
5 milliliters or 1 teaspoon capers, chopped
Dash of ground black pepper
1 stalk celery

In small bowl combine mustard and water; let stand for 10 minutes for flavor to develop. In a small mixing bowl cream together cream cheese and butter until well blended. Stir in reserved mustard, caraway seed, capers; separate celery into ribs. Cut each rib into 7½ centimeter (3-inch) lengths. Use reserved cream cheese mixture to stuff into each celery boat. Makes about 375 milliliters (1½ cups) of filling.

Quick convenience with refrigerated biscuits

Generations of good cooks have known how to please their families while making meat go further by topping meat pies and stews with biscuits or by serving chicken creamed over hot biscuits. You can carry these thrifty ways even further by using biscuits to turn ground beef into a hearty main dish that costs only about 42 cents per serving.

Cheeseburger Biscuit Squares calls for refrigerated biscuits, a convenience product that usually costs less than homemade. They are also a less expensive meat extender than most pasta or rice. Using the refrigerated biscuits speeds up preparation time so much that Cheeseburger Biscuit Squares makes a good addition to the working mother's repertoire of quick, filling main dishes.

Since most families count heavily on getting a good part of their day's nutriton at dinner, Pillsbury kitchens calculated the nutrients in their recipe for Cheeseburger Biscuit Squares. An average serving provides about half the protein, nearly all the vitamin A and about one-third of the B vitamins and iron recommended for a good daily diet. Round out a well-balanced meal with coleslaw, for vitamin C, and top it off with ice cream for extra calcium.

CHEESEBURGER BISCUIT SQUARES

1½ lbs ground beef
1 (1½ ounce) package sloppy joe or chili seasoning mix
8 ounce can tomato sauce
2 cans (8 ounces each) refrigerated biscuits
6 slices processed American cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In large frying pan, brown ground beef; drain. Stir in seasoning mix and tomato sauce; simmer while preparing crust. Separate one can biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Pull biscuits apart to make two layers. Arrange five rows of biscuits on bottom of ungreased 13 by 9-inch pan. Spoon hot meat mixture over biscuits; arrange cheese slices on top. Separate second can biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Pull apart to make two layers; arrange in rows over hot meat mixture. Bake for 20 to 6 to 8 servings.

Small appliances biggest sellers

Small appliances accounted for 26 per cent of the housewares sales dollar volume last year, says Home Furnishings Daily. A study conducted for the National Housewares Manufacturers Association by Bee Angell and Associates, Inc., said cook and bake ware was the second largest category, with 11 per cent of the retail sales.

Roast makes three meals

The working woman cooks

by Joyce Zeller

It isn't easy feeding a family on a limited budget and a lot of us have been limited this year. Some of us, in fact, have been having a downright lousy time of it. Did you know that women who support children are the single largest poverty group in the country?

I was thinking about all these things as I stood staring at some pot roast thawing on the kitchen counter the other day. I was completely uninspired and hadn't the foggiest notion what I was going to do with this thing, so I guess I was tyring to psyche myself up by thinking about how lucky I was that I had something to cook.

WHEN I WAS a kid and it was getting close to payday we would eat gravy bread or apple dumplings but now we know too much about nurtirion to believe that you can go on for very long with a diet like that without getting sick.

Getting sick costs more money than eating, so what we need are some tricks to stretch the food and the money we have and still keep the meals balanced. This is a tall order when you consider the enormous amount of food teenagers need to keep going.

With all this in mind I decided to try to come up with three meals to feed six people using $3.75 worth of pot roast. Okay, so the meat was on sale for $ .53 a pound, but there's always a sale somewhere.

THE FIRST THING I would do if I thought I was going to be on a limited budget for very long is buy a pound of low fat soy flour. It costs about $1.69 at a health food store but it is a bargain.

Consider that one-fourth cup of soy flour has 14 grams of protein. Regular hamburger only has 17 grams in a quarter pound so you can obviously add a lot of protein to meat with soy flour. Use soy flour to thicken meat juices for gravy and that old meal of gravy bread doesn't seem like such a bad idea.

So here are three meals out of a pot roast.

Pot Rost Dinner, first night:

7 pounds blade cut pot roast, cut up
All-purpose flour
Vegetable oil
2 teaspoons salt
1 large onion
1 teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon pepper

brown in oil in a dutch oven. Add all other ingredients and bake covered in a slow oven (300 degrees) for 3½ hours. Remove meat with a slotted spoon. Add 2 cups water to juices in pot and stir. Save 2 cups stock to make gravy for the pot roast dinner and reserve the rest for beans (see below). Use soy flour to thicken the gravy and serve about half the meat for dinner.

Meat and Beans Dinner, second night:

Using reserve stock cook 12-ounce package of pink beans slowly at least 1½ hours or until tender. Add water as needed but try to end up with as little water as possible. Let soak several hours. Drain beans.

1 small onion, chopped..
1 small bell pepper, chopped
2 tablespoons oil
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
½ teaspoon ground cumin
Half of the leftover meat

Saute onion and green pepper in oil. Add rest of ingredients and heat thru. Taste for salt.

Meat and Noodles, third night:

This recipe uses soy flour for the noodles. The texture is different but this is a very filling and nutritious dish. If there is not enough juice in the remainder of the leftover meat to make a gravy sauce, add a little water and a bouillon cube. Thicken with a mixture of half soy flour and half regular flour.

Noodles:

1 cup all-purpose flour
1 cup de-fatted soy flour
3 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ cup water or more

Cut shortening into flour and salt. Add egg and ½ cup water. Stir until it forms a soft, dry dough. Knead a few minutes until smooth. Roll very thin and cut into strips about ½ inch wide. Allow to dry overnight. Cook until tender in boiling water. Drain and combine with leftover meat (see above.).

Potato chip invented by accident

Here's a sequel to a story we told you recently about potatoes. Specifically, it's about the Saratoga Chip, which originated at Saratoga, N.Y., in 1853. It happened by accident. An Indian chef at the famous Saratoga Hotel discovered it when a thin shaving of peeled potato fell into some fat he was boiling. He tasted the crispy delicacy, it made him very happy, and thus was born the Saratoga Chip, forerunner to our potato chip, which is actually thinner. Now, of course, if the chef had fallen in instead of the potato sliver, no doubt it would have made him boiling mad.

Say, what's the biggest berry in the world? Folks have been refreshed by it since the Year One. A native fruit of tropical Africa, it's eaten out of hand, and when you're finished, you drip juice from ear to ear. You guessed it, watermelon. It is a berry, the biggest in the world. And good news for watermelon lovers: it's now being grown without seeds.

When was a restaurant not a restaurant? I'll tell you. In the 16th Century, "restaurant," the French word for restore, applied mainly to restoring works of art. And a restauranteur was a restorer of paintings. But a smart Frenchman opened up a restaurant where he served spiced broth, a restorative beverage. He called his place a restaurant, and the name has stayed with us. Aren't you glad he didn't call it a swimming pool? Any time you ate out, you might've had to do a high dive for dinner. And imagine saying to your spouse: "Please swim over and get me the salt."

This bit of news is about the expression "To sit above the salt." There's an old English custom of putting a large silver saltholder in the middle of a long table. Places on the side towards the head of the table were considered above the salt and were always occupied by people of distinction. So, "to sit above the salt" meant you were important. Personally, I don't care where I sit as long as I can reach the meat platter, how about you?

Children, women are heaviest snackers

The average person consumes six to seven snacks daily, says the National Live Stock and Meat Board in Chicago. The trade organization said children up to age 12 and women between the ages of 25 and 44 are heavy snackers, having up to 20 food contacts daily.

Grass underfoot may be dinner

by GAYNOR MADDOX

Tread lightly as you walk through the woods. The grass you crush could be your next dinner.

It becomes increasingly clear that millions of people do not realize that the greens about them could be used as valuable food.

For example, the National Research Council has determined that 36 of 400 obscure tropical plants have "significant potential" for providing economic and nutritional improvement among poorer countries of the tropics — important news to the United States and other leading countries.

AMONG THE plants described are: a wild Australian grass that needs little water yet yields nutritious grain; a grain-producing, grass-like marine plant that grows off Mexico's west coast and provides food and flour; a fruit, "perhaps the world's best tasting," that is grown only in Southeast Asia; a vigorously growing Central American hedge with nutritious, spinach-like leaves; a tree from Chile's Atacama desert that provides abundant forage for sheep.

The report points to a vulnerability in the world's food and raw materials supplies. Most of the people in the world today are fed by only about 20 crops: cereals such as wheat, rice, maize, millet and sorghum; root crops such as potato, sweet potato and cassave; legumes such as peas, beans, peanuts and soybeans; and sugar cane, sugar beet, coconuts and bananas.

"These plants are the main bulwark between mankind and starvation," the report states. "It is a very small bastion."

Alan Hall, a man who loves to forage the countryside, says, "A knowledge of wild food plants can contribute immeasurably to the enjoyment of nature. It can provide the camper with relief from boring pre-packaged meals and with the gratification that he can live in the wilderness by his wits rather than by the strength of his back and the contents of his pack. The casual hiker, biker, or walker can add zest to trail lunches and anyone can add to his culinary repertoire a list of wild delicacies that are unavailable commercially."

IN HIS NEW and expanded edition of "The Wild Food Trailguide," (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, $3.95 paperback; $8.95 hardcover). Alan Hall writes for those unfamiliar with botanical terms. His book, checked for accuracy by a professional botanist, tells which plant parts to collect and what stage of growth is best for picking.

Eighty-five of the most common edible North American wild plants are covered in the book.

These 85 plants alone provide: 28 different salad greens, 18 cooked vegetables, eight substitutes for potatoes, 18 sources of flour, four cooking oils and butters, 21 cold beverages, 23 substitutes for coffee and tea, seven sources of sugar and numerous potherbs, fruits, confections, jams and jellies, pies, vinegars and even salt.

Each plant is illustrated and each has a range map. A separate section is devoted to poisonous look-alikes.

Picnic cupcakes mix hearty flavors

Picnic season is in full bloom with summer just around the corner. So pack a basket or hamper full of food. Don't forget the utensils and make a day at the park or zoo a fun-filled but inexpensive outing.

Cobblestone Cupcakes make a perfect picnic dessert. These combine two all-American favorites, peanut butter and chocolate chips. Since chips are the topping, it's a frosting, without any sticky mess. But just in case, pack a few damp towelettes for a quick clean-up.

When packing your outdoor lunch, keep food safety in mind. Meats and salad dressing or mayonnaise must be kept cool. Soups or sidedishes will remain hot if they are packed in thermos bottles. But there are lots of foods that need no temperature control at all. Raw vegetables, peanut butter sandwiches and even some cheeses stay fresh for hours.

Cobblestone Cupcakes

COBBLESTONE CUPCAKES

- 2 cups enriched self-rising flour*
- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup light brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¾ cup orange juice
- ½ cup peanut butter
- ¼ cup butter, softened
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, regular or mini

Stir together dry ingredients. Blend in orange juice, peanut butter, butter and eggs. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on medium speed of electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Fill greased or paper-lined muffin cups 2/3 full. Sprinkle chocolate pieces on top. Bake in pre-heated 350 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes or until done.

*All-purpose flour may be used instead, but add 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Spices, cheese used in ham dish

Leftover ham makes the base for an economical meal-in-a-dish for hungry family or guests. It can be a quick concoction. Just toss in whatever vegetables and seasonings you want.

One version has ham cubes and potato chunks with a spiced creamy cheese sauce. Add cooked carrot slices, peas, zucchini chunks, celery chunks or corn. Vary flavors by using basil or marjoram, onion powder or curry or chili powder or mustard. Sprinkle top with crumbled corn chips, grated Parmesan cheese or sesame seeds.

HAM AND MUSTARD CASSEROLE

2 teaspoons powdered mustard
2 teaspoons warm water
5 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
4 cups cooked potatoes cut into 1-inch chunks
2 cups cooked ham cubes
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs

Mix mustard and warm water. Let stand for 10 minutes to allow flavor to develop. In a medium saucepan melt 4 tablespoons of the butter. Add flour. Cook and stir for 2 minutes. Stir in milk and mustard. Cook and stir until mixture boils and thickens. Boil for 1 minute. Remove from heat and add cheese; stir until cheese melts. Mix in potatoes, ham, parsley flakes, salt and black pepper. Pour into a buttered 1½-quart casserole. In a small saucepan melt remaining 1 tablespoon butter. Stir in bread crumbs. Lightly spoon around edge of casserole. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven until hot and bubbly and crumbs are golden, about 20 minutes. Makes 6 portions.

Ham and Mustard Casserole

Nectarines add zest to baked items

A large crop of California nectarines is expected again this year. These sweet, juicy treats make excellent out-of-hand eating and go well as broiled garnishes with meat dishes. They are also good in salads and, especially, in baked items.

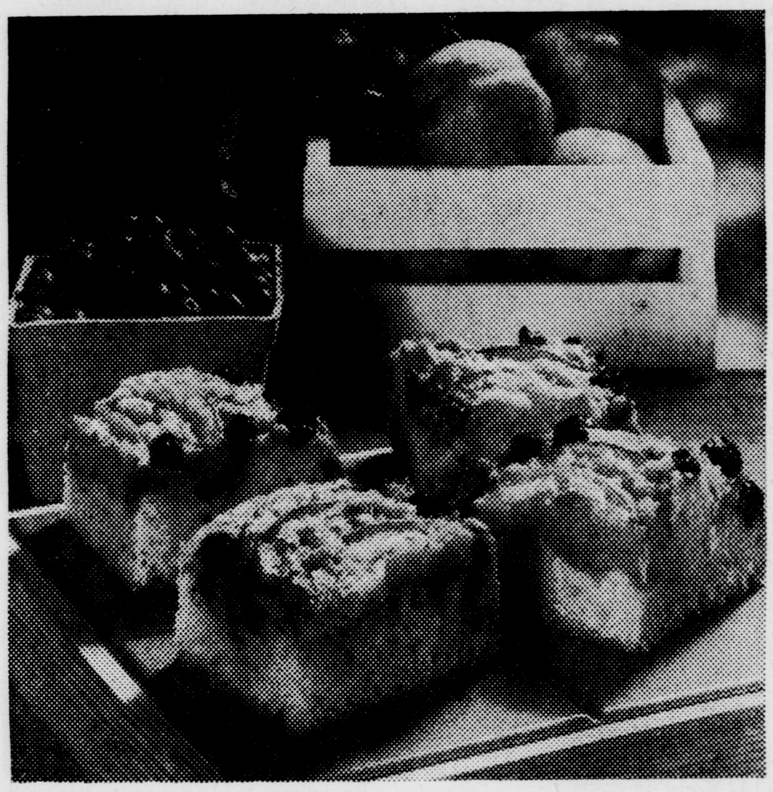
NECTARINE BLUEBERRY MUFFIN-CAKE

Streusel Topping
2 large fresh nectarines
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
¾ teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 large egg
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ cup fresh blueberries

Prepare Steusel Topping.* Thinly slice nectarines to measure 2½ cups. Cream sugar, butter and lemon peel together. Add egg and beat well. Resift flour with baking powder, soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream, blending well. Turn into greased 9-inch square baking pan and spread level. Sprinkle with half the streusel. Arrange nectarine slices and blueberries over top. Sprinkle with remaining streusel. Bake in center of 350 degree oven 55 to 60 minutes, until cake tests done. Cut into squares and serve warm. Makes about 9 servings.

*Streusel Topping:.

Combine 1/3 cup each brown sugar (packed) and sifted flour and ½ teaspoon mace; mix well. Cut in 3 tablespoons soft butter until crumbly.



Nectarine Blueberry Muffin-Cake

Fresh doughnuts

The true story of how doughnuts got their hole may never be known, but ever since colonial days, doughnuts have been traditional. For best results, preheat oil to 375 degrees before frying, and try not to crowd doughnuts in the pan. After they rise to the surface and become golden brown on the bottom, turn with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Roll or shake warm doughnuts in plain or cinnamon sugar. And remember the holes, they are a special treat for the youngsters.

Jayne Berglund

Her hot seafood salad is a hit

by LOIS SEILER

Caring for a family of four, working part-time and attending school leaves Jayne Berglund of Palatine little time for fancy cooking. But when vacation times comes around Jayne enjoys being creative in the kitchen and entertaining guests.

She particularly likes to give luncheons, and one of her favorite menus features Hot Seafood Salad.

Both crabmeat and shrimp are used in this dish, atlhough Jayne occasionally substitutes lobster. She combines the seafood with salad dressing, several fresh chopped vegetables, almonds, water chestnuts and hard cooked eggs and bakes the mixture.

Because the hot seafood salad is rich, Jayne suggests simple accompaniments such as a mandarin orange salad or spiced peaches with rolls. For dessert she recommends lemon fruit ice with creme de menthe over the top.

An unusual barbecued chicken is popular with her husband Dave and their two children. "If I had just seen the recipe, I never would have tried it," Jayne said. However, she tasted the chicken at a friend's home and immediately asked for the recipe. Her family insists on having the dish at least once a week during the summer months, and guests always seem to enjoy it, she said.

Rather than cooking the chicken over the grill and basting it with sauce, this chicken is cooked first in the barbecue sauce. The sweet-sour flavor permeates the meat, giving it an unusual spicy taste.

The chicken can be cooked early in the day and refrigerated with the sauce. Before serving, Jayce grills the chicken over hot coals.

An impressive dessert for special occasions is Jayne's Cream Puff Pie. A cream puff batter forms the crust, which is baked and filled with a light vanilla custard. Cut in wedges, it is served with fresh, sweetened strawberries.

Jayne is completing the medical laboratory technician's program at Harper College and works part-time in the lab at Northwest Community Hospital.

CREAM PUFF shells, though impressive looking, are really not at all difficult to make. They can then be used with a variety of fillings, such as the vanilla cream Jayne Berglund uses.

HOT SEAFOOD SALAD

24 ounces frozen shrimp, cleaned and drained
2 packages (7-ounce size) frozen crabmeat, drained and broken up
1 pint salad dressing
2 cups sliced celery
1 green pepper, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup sliced mushrooms, canned or fresh
1 can water chestnuts, sliced and drained
4 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1 package (3 to 4 ounces) sliced almonds
1 medium-size can shoestring potatoes, crushed

Combine all ingredients except shoestring potatoes. Turn into a 3-quart baking dish and sprinkle with paprika. Sprinkle crushed shoestring potatoes over the top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 8.

BARBECUED CHICKEN

1 cup catsup
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup vinegar, either cider, wine or white
¼ cup margarine or butter
1½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 chicken, cut up

Combine all ingredients except chicken and bring to a boil. Add chicken, reduce heat and cook over low heat for 45 minutes, uncovered.

Chicken can be made ahead and allowed to set in sauce (in refrigerator) until ready to use. Place chicken on grill over hot coals and brown about five minutes on each side. Serves 3 to 4.

CREAM PUFF PIE

Crust:
¼ cup vegetable shortening
½ cup flour
Dash of salt
2 eggs

Bring water and shortening to boil. Add flour and salt all at once. Beat with wooden spoon and cook over medium heat until mixture pulls away from sides of pan. Remove from heat and beat in eggs, one at a time.

Spread evenly in a circular motion ove the bottom of a greased, 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 400 degrees for 50 minutes. Cool.

Filling:
½ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 slightly-beaten egg yolk
½ cup whipping cream, whipped
1 teaspoon vanilla
Fresh, sweetened strawberries

Mix together the sugar, cornstarch, flour and salt. Gradually stir in milk. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, until thick. Stir a little of the hot mixture into egg yolk. Blend this into mixture in pan and bring to a boil again, stirring constantly. Chill. When cold, fold in whipped cream and vanilla.

Turn into cream puff pie crust and chill. Cut pie into wedges and spoon berries over each serving. Serves 6.

Slow-cooking class offered

A special lesson on slow cookers and portable kitchen applicances will be presented by Home Economics advisor Dorothy Landgraf of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The free workshop will be held Wednesday, June 16 at 7 p.m. in the Farm Building at 4200 W. Euclid Ave. in Rolling Meadows. Advanced reservations are required and can be made by calling the Extension Office at 991-1160.
